ADVENTISTS IN ASSAULT ON BLUE LAWS

Religious Gathering Here Reveals Inside History Of Council Campaign

Sunday closing of theatres and business houses in Glendale was the real issue of the recent municipal campaign, when the election of Clarence E. Kimlin was opposed by the Glendale Ministerial association, Rev. W. F. Martin of the Seventh-day Adventist church of Glendale today told nearly 100 Adventist leaders who are attending a two-day religious liberty institute here.

"Three or four years ago the movement for Sunday closing in Glendale was started by a small group," said Rev. Martin. "The movement still continues. Undercover plans were laid to get Sunday closing laws by city ordinance following the proposed election of a group of councilmen who would agree to put it across."

"In the recent municipal campaign the Glendale Ministerial association endorsed a number of candidates for council because of 'high moral standing of the men.' But C. E. Kimlin's name was not included, although it is a generally recognized fact that his moral standing and character in the community is as high as any man in the city."

But now, in a letter dated April 18, Kimlin is told why he wasn't selected.

It is pointed out, however, that a number of ministers who are members of the association did NOT sign the endorsement of the municipal candidates and that the endorsement was NOT an official action by the association.

Rev. Edmonds' letter.

The letter, read to the Adventists by Rev. Martin, was signed by Rev. W. E. Edmonds, chairman of the Ministerial association. It is stated that, while Kimlin was held as a Christian with high moral standing, "our point of interest in his attitude on Sunday work."

Copies of the letter were asked by various members of the institute, and other copies will be sent to "Signs of the Times" and other Adventist publications.

Capital Heat Wave Broken By Rainfall

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The record-breaking heat wave under which the capital sweltered during the week-end was broken here today by a drop in temperature which brought a sudden abandonment of straw hats and a hunt for overcoats.

From 90 degrees early Sunday afternoon, the thermometer dropped rapidly during the night until it stood at 40 this morning. A heavy rain was the principal factor in dissipating the heat.

Weather bureau officials said that the storm would pass out to sea today and that warmer weather could be expected tomorrow.

JAPAN LOSES 526 LIVES IN QUAKE

Property Damage Estimated At $65,000,000; 1000 On Injured List

By LUTHER A. HUSTON For International News Service. TOKIO, May 25.—The death toll of Japan's latest earthquake, the terrific shock that rocked Hyogo prefecture, in the southeastern region of the main Japanese island of Nippon, Saturday morning, was placed at 526 and damage was estimated at $65,000,000, according to a statement issued today by the Hyogo prefectural office. Over 1000 persons are reported to have been injured by the earthquake. Statistics follow:

Kinosaki, 200 killed, 300 injured, 652 houses collapsed, 653 houses burned.

Toyo-Oka, 48 killed, 200 injured, 70 houses collapsed, 1500 houses burned.

Surrounding villages, 278 killed, 532 injured, 1224 houses collapsed, 1672 houses burned.

Total estimate of damage, 130,000,000 yen. ($65,000,000).

The prefectural statement cautioned that the above figures were

Governor Signs Delhi Land Settlement Bill

SACRAMENTO, May 25.—Declaring that the "state of California must see this project through on account of its moral phase, more than on account of its business phase," Governor Richardson has issued a statement announcing his signature of Assembly bill 1258, appropriating $250,000 for the relief of settlers in the Delhi state land settlement colonies.

The governor in his statement asserted that the state has lost more than $1,000,000 in the Delhi project and charged Elwood Mead, former head of the California State Land Settlement board, with responsibility for the loss.

Jap Naturalization Rescinded By Courts

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The United States supreme court today cancelled the naturalization papers granted by the federal court of Massachusetts in 1921 to Hidemitsu Toyoto, a Japanese who served nine years in the coast guard. The supreme court held Japanese were not entitled to citizenship by naturalization under the laws.

CROPS SUFFER IN MIDWEST FRIGIDITY

Early Tomato, Bean Acreage Chief Sufferer; Region Still Held In Grip

CHICAGO, May 25.—Virtually complete annihilation of the early tomato and bean crops and great damage to corn in the sections where the low temperatures struck over the week-end were forecast today, following a preliminary survey by agricultural agencies here.

Damage, it was estimated, will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Warnings of another frost tonight were issued by the local weather bureau this morning. The "May winter," which swirled out of the northwest late Saturday and kept temperatures near the freezing point over the week-end, still held Chicago and the mid-west in its grip today.

The low point of the present frigidly was 37 degrees reached at 9:30 a. m. yesterday and the high was 44 degrees registered at 7 o'clock last night. In the interim, a miniature blizzard swept over the city. One death from cold was reported. The day before there had been five heat prostrations in this district as the thermometer climbed to 94, making it the hottest May 22 of record.

The forecast today gave promise of "slowly rising temperatures" to nearly normal for the season, but warned that no real warm weather was in sight.

Killing Frost In Iowa Inflicts Heavy Damage

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 25.—A killing frost, in some sections the most killing in twenty-eight years, struck Iowa farmers a severe blow last night, according to reports reaching here today. Many corn fields were laid flat, the berry, grape and potato crops were virtually wiped out and garden truck was ruined. Ice formed in Des Moines and at many other points.

Boone, Iowa, reported a new May heat record two days ago of 101 degrees, and experienced a new cold record at this time of the year with a temperature of twenty-seven degrees last night.

The local government weather bureau reported the damage would run into thousands of dollars.

Damage In Illinois Placed At $1,000,000

DANVILLE, Ill., May 25.—Crop damage, which, according to preliminary survey completed today, reached close to $1,000,000, was brought to east central Illinois by the week-end cold wave which drove thermometers down to 25 degrees, a record low point for the date. Fright, vegetable and berry raisers declared their early crops ruined. Considerable damage also was done to grains.

The temperature in this section dropped 76 degrees in 18 hours from a high point of 101 Saturday afternoon. Last night there was ice on the ponds where many had been swimming Saturday.

Indiana Strawberries Suffer In Cold Wave

INDIANAPOLIS, May 25.—Killing frosts of Saturday and Sunday night took a heavy toll in Indiana crops, especially tomatoes, onions and beans, according to scattered reports reaching the government weather bureau here today. Strawberries were hard hit and even apple trees suffered considerably.

GERARD DENIAL

WASHINGTON, May 25.—James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, today cabled President Coolidge from Paris denying that he was one of the Americans abroad who are alleged to have expressed critical views of the effort of the United States to collect war debts from France and other nations.

Battle Over 'Evolution'

Here are pictures of JOHN T. SCOPES, high school teacher, charged with violation of Tennessee's "anti-evolution" law; WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, who offered his services to the prosecution; CLARENCE DARROW and DUDLEY FIELD MALONE, eager to serve the defense.

Issues Involved Cause Big Interest In Trial Of Tennessee Teacher

BULLETIN DAYTON, Tenn., May 25.—John Thomas Scopes, youthful high school professor, alleged anti-evolution law violator, was today indicted for teaching the theory of evolution in Dayton public schools by the special session of the Rhea county grand jury which convened here this morning for this particular case.

A true bill was quickly returned and Presiding Judge John T. Raulston will immediately order a special term of court for the trial of Scopes, which will probably take place about June 17.

DAYTON, Tenn., May 25.—The case of John T. Scopes, high school teacher, on the charge of violating Tennessee's "anti-evolution" law, promises to become a great legal battle. William Jennings Bryan has offered his services to the prosecution; Clarence Darrow and Dudley Field Malone, lawyers of international reputation, are eager to serve the defense; and money is coming in.

FOREIGN DEBT POLICY NOT CHANGED

Coolidge Administration To Remain Firm In Plans To Collect Money

By H. K. REYNOLDS For International News Service. WASHINGTON, May 25.—Only as a last resort and when it appears certain that funding of the foreign debts owed the United States cannot be accomplished otherwise, will the Coolidge administration make any radical change in the present debt collecting policy, it was declared officially here today.

This attitude on the part of the president and members of the cabinet was made known to set at rest reports, both in this country and abroad, that the government was preparing to back down in its demand for the payment of the $7,000,000,000 now outstanding, under the terms of the existing foreign debt act.

These reports arose from the fact that there had been some discussion of late among members of the debt commission and other officials of the intention of both France and Belgium to ask for more liberal terms in the payment of the millions borrowed from the United States during the war. It has been expected that such proposals would be made since it has

Harmony Faction Wins At General Assembly

COLUMBUS, O., May 25.—By an overwhelming vote the Presbyterian General assembly, in session here today, adopted the report of the committee on bills and overtures recommending that no action be taken relative to the request of the First Presbyterian church, New York City, for approval of its action in the Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick case. Only a few scattering "noes" were heard when the vote was made.

The vote of the general assembly in this matter is the first big victory scored by the "harmony" faction.

Publication Of Tax Reports Held Legal

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The United States supreme court upheld as legal the publication of income tax payments in American newspapers. This opinion was rendered by the court in a decision upholding the publication of income returns in the Kansas City Post and reaffirmed a moment later in legalizing similar publications in the Baltimore Post.

JURY DISAGREES

CHICAGO, May 25.—After forty-eight hours of deliberation a jury today reported to court they could not reach a verdict on the murder charge against Olympia Macri, self-confessed slayer of John Bagnano, alleged father of her baby. The jury received the case last Saturday morning after five weeks of trial.

SHOOTING SUSPECT

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—Frank Epler, 43, a watchman, was held in jail today, following the shooting of William Thorpe, 26, night manager for a taxicab company. Epler shot Thorpe, he said, because he thought he was a hold-up man. Epler was charged with suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

FADS CONDEMNED

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 25.—A concerted publicity campaign against "fads, cults and faculties" which impose upon the public worthless cures was recommended before the meeting of the American Medical association here today.

MUSSOLINI FOUND

ROME, May 25.—The question of the whereabouts of Premier Mussolini was ended today when it was learned he was visiting Gabriele D'Annunzio, poet-aviator. It was thought the visit was in connection with the celebration of Italy's entrance into the World war.

Great Britain Serves Notice In War Debts

LONDON, May 25.—Great Britain has served notice on the countries that owe her money that any move on their part to pay the United States should be accompanied by a similar move to pay Great Britain, it was officially announced in the House of Commons today.

Speaking for the government, Walter Guinness, treasury financial secretary, said: "In negotiations on the subject of debts due Britain, we have made it clear that any steps taken by debtor powers to pay the United States should be accompanied by similar steps to discharge their debt to Great Britain."

DEFENSE TEST APPROVED BY COOLIDGE

President Makes Objection to Having Armistice Day Selected As Date

WASHINGTON, May 25.—President Coolidge today gave approval to a "voluntary" defense test, similar to the one held last September and suggested July 4 as the day for the exhibition.

In a letter to Acting Secretary of War Davis, the president reiterated his objection to the proposal that this year's test be conducted on Armistice day. "He also suggested that in the war department's communication to the governors of the various states, it should be emphasized that the proposed plan is purely voluntary. The president's letter follows:

"On the 11th instant, you submitted to me a proposed plan of the war department to hold on next Armistice day, November 11, 1925, a second defense test of the same general character as the one which was held last September. "You state that the same conditions exist now which made a muster and inspection of the army

Girl, Two Boys Drown Swimming In River

STOCKTON, Cal., May 25.—Three lives were lost in the season's first swimming tragedy in Tuolumne river, according to advice reaching here today. A girl, 15, and two boys, who attempted to rescue her, were the victims. The drownings occurred Sunday, at Stevens Bar. Arline Milne, 15, was wading when she lost her footing and was swept into the current of the river. Harry Brown, 19, and George Thomas, 17, who were wading nearby, heard her screams and saw her struggling and plunged after her. They were unable to cope with the current and all three lost their lives. All resided in Stockton.

CASHIER SUICIDE

MANILA, May 25.—Fred W. Kenny, cashier of the Philippine Trust Co., former captain in the United States army, committed suicide here today, according to police authorities, following an alleged plot on the part of bank subordinates to make it appear he was responsible for a $50,000 shortage. Vice-President McFerran of the bank declared Kenny was entirely innocent of any connection with the shortage.

MINERS REBEL

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., May 25.—Mine strike trouble broke out anew here early today with the bombing of two houses of miners at Glendale, a small mining town just outside this city. Five arrests followed. The first bomb wrecked the porch of the house occupied by Harry Smigal. While residents were investigating this blast, another occurred at the house of John Poluski, nearby. No one was injured.

SENATOR NAMED

JEFFERSON CITY, May 25.—George H. Williams of St. Louis was appointed United States senator by Governor Baker this morning. Williams succeeds the late Seldon P. Spencer, who died suddenly in Washington May 16.

DARING FLYERS PRISONERS IN HEAVY FOG IS BELIEF

Several Days May Elapse Before Authentic News Comes From Party

BULLETIN COPENHAGEN, May 25.—An admittedly unconfirmed report that the Amundsen-Ellsworth North pole flyers reached Spitzbergen yesterday was circulated here today but was discredited.

LONDON, May 25.—Eight days probably will elapse before news of Amundsen can arrive, according to an interview with Colonel Kock, chief of the Danish air service, as reported in Copenhagen dispatches in today's Evening News.

"Fog may have delayed Amundsen," said Colonel Kock, "thus making more difficult the task of locating the exact position of the pole."

Gittar Alagarsson's proposed dirigible flight to the pole has been delayed by airship difficulties, according to a Central News dispatch from Liverpool. However, Alagarsson hopes to reach Spitzbergen in time to aid in locating Amundsen.

Anxious Crowds Awaiting Any Word From Amundsen

OSLO, Norway, May 25.—The almost 300,000 people of this capital city were in a state of tense excitement today in the absence of news of the Amundsen-Ellsworth north pole flyers, six in number. Newspaper offices were besieged by anxious crowds and the government put on extra workers to keep open the telegraph, telephone and other means of communication for the receipt of distribution of news.

The steamer Hobby was reported to have returned from an outlook trip along the northern coast lines beyond Spitzbergen. It was said to have found no trace of the flyers.

Weather experts still insist that, although there has been bad weather in the vicinity of Spitzbergen, the polar weather is good. Many have been of the opinion that Amundsen, may have encountered a storm and descended to avoid it.

Great interest is being displayed here on reports from the United States that the American government may send airships to search for the Amundsen party.

It is the general belief in Oslo that Amundsen has reached the pole and descended and is awaiting better weather conditions before returning. It also is believed possible he may have landed north of Spitzbergen and has not been able to establish communication with the ships Hobby and Farm.

Patrol Steamer Returns Without News of Explorer

LONDON, May 25.—Hope for the safety of Captain Raold Amundsen and his companions on the polar flight gave way to apprehension today.

The steamer Hobby, one of the two patrol boats which preceded the airplanes to the rim of the polar ice, has returned to Wallman bay without word, according to news agency advices from Spitzbergen, via Oslo.

No word had been received from Amundsen at Spitzbergen at 2 p. m. today.

Members of the crew of the Hobby shared in the gloom which replaced the optimism of the first few days of the flyers' absence. They have been gone four days now. As hours passed in the wait for news, those most interested in the explorers' welfare entertained fears that Amundsen, Lieutenant Ellsworth and their four companions, had met with disaster.

The despatches from Spitzbergen said the Hobby found hazardous ice conditions in its patrol of the seas northeast of the Danish islands.

The weather at Spitzbergen was reported as cloudy and raw with the thermometer below zero. However, one note of optimism was struck by Commander K. Prestud, naval attaché of the Nor-

WITNESS SAYS SHEPHERD GUILTY

Missing Aide to Prosecution
Case Promises Return
In Time To Testify

CHICAGO, May 25.—Another letter purporting to have been written by Robert White, missing witness for the prosecution in the trial of William D. Shepherd and herded by the state's attorney's office after a comparison of handwriting as "genuine" was received by Joseph Savage, attorney general.

In the writer charges Shepherd is guilty, and declares that, although he had to leave town through fear of Shepherd's agents, he would be back in time for the trial. The letter was mailed at Philadelphia.

A postscript of the letter, purporting to have been written by Mrs. White, corroborates the statements set forth above it.

A canvass of all veniremen who were called for service in the trial of Shepherd for the alleged murder of William Nelson McClintock, in an effort to learn "who has been approached and talked to regarding jury service in this case," was ordered today by State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe.

The action was taken at the noon recess after thirteen more veniremen had been examined and rejected at the morning session of the trial, preceding which interrogatories were filed ordering James Callan, ward politician, to show cause why he should not be cited for contempt of court for his alleged attempt to influence Philip Barry, a prospective juror.

Shepherd is suffering from an attack of grippe which, it had been thought might necessitate a postponement. He was very obviously "under the weather" as he took his place in the court room and jail physicians admitted he had been confined to his bed since court adjourned Saturday.

San Diego Man Named Criminologists' Head

W. J. Macy of the bureau of identification, San Diego, was elected president of the California Association of Criminologists, held last week at Santa Ana, succeeding H. H. Caldwell, inspector at Oakland, according to Detective Sergeant P. C. Williams of the Glendale police department, delegate from this city, who returned Saturday.

V. F. Bicker, chief of police at Piedmont, was elected vice-president to succeed himself, and H. J. Zabel of the sheriff's office, Santa Ana, was named secretary-treasurer to succeed A. O. Juel, fingerprint expert at San Francisco.

Speakers included George K. Home, chief of detectives of Los Angeles; Clarence C. Morrill, superintendent of the California state bureau of criminal identification; Charles W. Pickle, deputy district attorney, Los Angeles county and R. Lee Heath, chief of police of Los Angeles.

Universal fingerprinting was urged by the convention. Sergeant Williams is a member of the state and international organizations. The 1926 convention will be held at Stockton. Morrill was elected delegate from California to the international association convention to be held at preliminary and might be revised later.

All sightseers have been barred from the disaster area, due to the difficulty being had in maintaining order.

Famine in the Hyogo region was prevented today by the arrival of sufficient food for immediate needs, according to reports reaching Tokyo.

Temporary barracks have been thrown up to house the thousands of homeless. A few shops slightly damaged were open, doing business.

The emperor made a personal donation of $13,500 for earthquake relief. Tokyo municipality subscribed $10,000. A public subscription list was made and further donations were coming in hourly.

During the last twenty-four hours twenty-four earthquake shocks were felt in the southeastern region of Nippon island, advisers here read. Kyoto, ancient capital, felt a sharp tremor last night.

An unusual phenomenon, connected with the earthquake was reported as Kinosaki hot springs turning cold.

Late dispatches from the disaster region indicated railroad and telegraph communication was partly restored and that conditions were approaching normal.

Numerous fires which followed the earthquake were reported under control today.

Relief work in Hyogo prefecture was under way today, Red Cross advised. Doctors and nurses from Kobe and Osaka were attending to the injured and sanitation measures were taken to guard against pestilence.

Undismayed by Saturday's disaster the people in the Hyogo region were taking up reconstruction work today with the stoic calmness of their race.

plug and fell back into the cabbying.

In that brief instant the lives of the limited's human freight hung on the nerve of one man—G. H. Schoolmaster of Buffalo, Peck's fireman.

He heard the thud as the hanging water-plug cracked Peck's head. Dropping his shovel, he sprang to the floor of the swaying "deck," dropped to his knees beside Peck and lifted his head.

There was only a labored breathing as he held the dying man a lurch of the train swaying around a curve nearly hurled the fireman on his face.

That lurch awakened him to the danger to the train and its sleeping passengers. Dropping Peck, he grasped the throttle, slowed the engine and the controls until James Leonard, conductor, realizing there was trouble on the front end, hurried forward.

With Schoolmaster at the throttle, guiding the train as it "picked up" again, Leonard stripped off his coat, took up the fireman's shovel and fired the engine into Syracuse. Peck died shortly after arriving at the hospital.

William H. Weagant of 5331 Maryland avenue, Eagle Rock is a patient at Glendale Research hospital.

Windsor, Ontario, next month. Caldwell was named delegate to the Canadian organization convention to be held at Vancouver, B. C.

EXTENSION OF AVENUE IS SOUGHT

New Route Into Los Angeles
For East Side Traffic
Is Reported

Continuation of Glendale avenue southwest from San Fernando road to Oxford street, opening a new and shorter passage for eastside Glendale traffic into Los Angeles, is sought in a petition circulated today. The petition will be presented to the Glendale City Council, containing names of property owners along Glendale avenue from the south extension of the street as far north as Lexington drive, the tentative boundaries of an assessment district which would stand the cost of opening the street.

The plan for the extension of Glendale avenue to Oxford street with a 100-foot roadway, has the approval of the Glendale Planning commission. At Oxford street the thoroughfare will strike Tyburn street at the boundary line of Los Angeles.

Plans for the widening of Tyburn street to Casitas avenue, Casitas avenue to Silverlake boulevard and the improvement of Silverlake boulevard to the river bank, in order to complete the proposed shortened highway into Los Angeles via Glendale avenue and the new Fletcher drive bridge, have the endorsement of Gordon Whitnall of the Los Angeles City Planning commission and the tentative approval of the Los Angeles City Council. J. F. McClish said in announcing circulation of the Glendale petition.

Projection of the new road to Los Angeles may mean alteration of present plans for the Fletcher drive bridge, bonds for which will be voted on in Los Angeles on June 2, Mr. McClish said. A conference with Los Angeles city engineers will determine whether it will not be more advisable to build the Glendale entrance to the bridge approximately half a block north of the present proposed location, swinging Silverlake boulevard and Fletcher drive directly onto the bridge by angling the course of both these streets.

The change in the bridge plans first advocated by Mr. McClish, would shorten the bridge by approximately 20 per cent of its length with a corresponding saving in the construction costs.

Prof. C. S. Longacre of Washington, D. C., international secretary of the Religious Liberty association, is attending the conference, and will be one of the speakers. In extending the invitation to Prof. Longacre to attend the convention Rev. Bernstein said that "The Religious Liberty association should have at its call every minister of the gospel in America opposed to a union of church and state, and they should be well trained so that whenever an issue of any kind threatening the liberties of the people arises, these clergymen could spring into action against it."

"If there is one phase of the gospel work upon which all other phases depend for continuity of effort, it is the religious liberty phase. When this breaks down in America the disintegration of a free people will follow. One thing after another that is in opposition to the work of Sunday law advocates will be closed up. Ministers of the gospel who love freedom will be forbidden to preach, and presses of religious organizations that are opposed to the Sunday law program will be stopped."

The Seventh Day Adventist church, Rev. Bernstein said today, "is not in the least just create another denomination, but because it has gathered the life of the word of God into a concentrated form." The "Third Angel's Message," the basis for the Adventists, he said, embodies into it all of the good from other denominations, the Methodists, the Lutherans and others.

Most of those attending the institute here today attended the annual picnic of the Glendale Seventh-Day Adventists church held at Rossmore park, Elder R. W. Parmelee, pastor of the church, was in charge of the program. Community singing was led by Elder Bernstein and Philip Knox, Miss Sturgeon of the Glendale academy gave a reading.

After the lunch hour a number of athletic contests were held. Luncheon was served today for visitors at the institute at the Glendale sanitarium.

'PAUPER' DIES

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—Investigation was launched today into the estate of George W. Hazeltine, 83, who died here in poverty, but who was later discovered to have left an estate of $500,000. Two conflicting wills, one leaving the bulk of the estate to the treasurer of the United States and the other to D. A. Schweitzer and Frank S. Hutton, Los Angeles attorneys, were discovered.

their legal rights," declared J. L. McElhany, president of the Pacific Union conference. "These so-called reforms, linking of church and state, are cropping up continually. The reform dragon is still just as wroth, but has grown a little more cunning. We should stand on our legal rights, just as Paul did in gospel days."

Topics Before Meet
Topics to be considered this afternoon and tomorrow are as follows:

The real object of Sunday legislation, G. A. Snyder, Los Angeles.

Teaching religion in the public schools. Why this cannot be justly done, W. W. Ruble, R. G. Schaffner, Glendale.

The proposed plan of releasing children during public school hours so they may attend for that time a religious school.

The proper relation of church and state, J. W. McComas, Pasadena.

Value of newspaper work as an educational factor in religious liberty, V. H. Lucas, Glendale.

How can one best fit himself for the religious liberty work? E. W. Webster.

Efforts to close private schools. Reasons why this should not be done.

Why religious legislation is wrong. Some reasons why it is opposed to the principle of Americanism, F. L. Knox, Long Beach.

"California and Oregon are the only states in the union which have no Sunday closing laws upon their statute books," said Rev. Martin. "These states both had Sunday laws in the past but when their evil effects were seen they were repealed. There are certain organizations in the land which are endeavoring to secure religious legislation in both these states."

Object of Campaign
"Not long ago a high official of the Lord's Day Alliance came to California, established an office in one of the leading cities and sent out word that this organization would never cease its efforts until California had a rigid Sunday law. The statement by this self-styled 'reformer' was 'Sunday is a day of rest, and we propose to see that Californians rest on that day.'"

"It is the avowed purpose of the Lord's Day Alliance to stop all manner of work on Sunday; close theatres and stores, prohibit the sale of gasoline and oil on Sunday and to prohibit excursions and steamboat rides on that day. Certain organizations are also working to have religion taught in the public schools. This is contrary to the elements of true Americanism."

Prof. C. S. Longacre of Washington, D. C., international secretary of the Religious Liberty association, is attending the conference, and will be one of the speakers. In extending the invitation to Prof. Longacre to attend the convention Rev. Bernstein said that "The Religious Liberty association should have at its call every minister of the gospel in America opposed to a union of church and state, and they should be well trained so that whenever an issue of any kind threatening the liberties of the people arises, these clergymen could spring into action against it."

Most of those attending the institute here today attended the annual picnic of the Glendale Seventh-Day Adventists church held at Rossmore park, Elder R. W. Parmelee, pastor of the church, was in charge of the program. Community singing was led by Elder Bernstein and Philip Knox, Miss Sturgeon of the Glendale academy gave a reading.

After the lunch hour a number of athletic contests were held. Luncheon was served today for visitors at the institute at the Glendale sanitarium.

"If there is one phase of the gospel work upon which all other phases depend for continuity of effort, it is the religious liberty phase. When this breaks down in America the disintegration of a free people will follow. One thing after another that is in opposition to the work of Sunday law advocates will be closed up. Ministers of the gospel who love freedom will be forbidden to preach, and presses of religious organizations that are opposed to the Sunday law program will be stopped."

The Seventh Day Adventist church, Rev. Bernstein said today, "is not in the least just create another denomination, but because it has gathered the life of the word of God into a concentrated form." The "Third Angel's Message," the basis for the Adventists, he said, embodies into it all of the good from other denominations, the Methodists, the Lutherans and others.

Daily Greeting to News Readers

WE HAVE NEVER KNOWN—

An idle man who was really happy.
A style adopted by the woman that was not ridiculed by the men.
A promoter who promised too much who was ever able to deliver enough.
A marriage to fail where both parties were willing to forgive.
An apartment house that made a good home for a child.

CONTROVERSIES DEPLORABLE

The controversies between the fundamentalists and the modernists, including the war between the evolutionists and their opponents in Tennessee, are doing the cause of Christianity more harm than good. There are times when debate and discussion are highly desirable, but in such cases as these they only serve to stir up hatred and strife. Nothing can or will be proved, no one's opinion will be changed.

One of the fundamentalists says he does not dread controversy, divisions, separations, for they serve to discover who is on God's side. It is presumed the opposing forces feel the same way about it, and as for God, he probably does not need that his adherents should quarrel, for he already knows who is on his side.

Squire Arthur Benson, one of the three Tennessee justices who found John T. Scopes, biology teacher, guilty, and held him to the grand jury for teaching Darwinism, said: "No man who has an ounce of brains or any of this so-called intellectualism will believe that his ancestor was a flea-bitten monkey." We hold no brief for the theory of evolution, but we do know that Squire Benson never read Darwin or he would be more intelligent as to what Darwin's theory really is. If we intended to go into the debate we should read both the Bible and Darwin. It seems that many who are becoming warmed up over the subject have read neither. Darwin, himself, once gave some advice that is applicable here when he said:

"I feel most deeply that this whole question of Creation is too profound for human intellect. A dog might as well speculate on the mind of Newton! Let each man hope and believe what he can."

WE CAN'T COMPLAIN

Every business which is conducted according to business methods is ever on the lookout for new business, and more of it, and The Glendale Evening News is no exception to the rule. However, we have no complaint to make, for the co-operation of the Glendale merchants and their appreciation of what a live, strictly-local paper means to a city have been of the greatest encouragement to us in building up The Glendale Evening News.

A local paper depends upon local patronage for life and growth, and to the degree that The Glendale Evening News has been a success as a community asset and a business venture, we are indebted to the people of Glendale who have patronized our advertising columns and accepted the paper in their homes.

On the other hand, we may be pardoned if we feel we have contributed something to the good of the community. We have made an investment for equipment for a newspaper plant far beyond what is ordinarily considered necessary for a city of this size; we have published a paper that has grown with Glendale and even anticipated the city's growth. And we have done everything in our power to protect Glendale from those interests outside the city that are organized to draw business from Glendale.

The Glendale Evening News is ready for more business, and is amply able to handle it when it comes. We are prepared to co-operate with advertisers in planning their advertising campaigns for greater efficiency. Meanwhile we are more than willing to give credit where it is due.

JUBILEE YEAR COSTUMES

In many communities in California the people are adopting the old Spanish costume in commemoration of California's Diamond Jubilee and the many fiestas and celebrations to be held this year. These costumes range over every period of Spanish history from the middle ages down to the present, it is said, and from the most elaborate to the simplest and most inexpensive garb.

A year ago the men of Sacramento let their beards grow in order to make the "Days of '49" celebration more realistic, and a few cities are following their lead this year. However, the Spanish costume answers the same purpose and has the advantage of being sanitary, comfortable and attractive, which cannot be said for the beards.

There is nothing that can so easily add the touch of romance to any occasion or gathering as the gay trousers, the colorful blouses and boleros and the wide sombreros of the Spanish regime in California. Even simple costumes of white trousers, shirt and shoes, with wide hat and turkey red sash are sufficient to recall the old days and to advertise the events of the year.

It would be fitting for the members of one of Glendale's clubs to start the ball rolling by adopting the Spanish costume for jubilee year. Of course, the women as well as the men are enjoying this opportunity to promote the fiesta spirit.

THROUGH BLIND MEN'S EYES

The man who is blind may believe there is no light or color in the world, but that does not make it so. The man who is a failure may think there is no chance for anyone to make good, yet hundreds are winning success through their own efforts every day. The man who, through lack of business acumen, or other fault of his own, fails to get business, may think times are dull, but that does not make dull times.

The worst thing about these people who persist in trying to make us look on the dark side is that they do induce others to see things through their eyes. If the blind man can make his friends look at life through his eyes, then all is dark for them. The man who can make others believe there is no chance of winning kills in them the spirit to try. And the man who sends out a message that times are dull, helps to make dull times.

Success or failure in any undertaking is due, in a large measure, to the mental attitude. When we get a distorted view of things and conditions we do ourselves harm, but we should have the grace and the good sense to stop there and not try to make others believe that the world is all wrong.

Secretary Hoover says the world may soon be eating synthetic food. We have been breakfasting off it for some time.

WHEN DREAMS COME TRUE

Teachers' Salaries

By DR. FRANK CRANE

We do not pay teachers of our children enough. There is no getting away from the economic truth that we get what we pay for, and we get only that. In the long run the level of any profession is about even with its remuneration.

A recent writer says: "When we buy teaching service, to a large extent we buy our children's outlook on life."

We live for our children. The whole house is conducted for them. And no business could be more important than their proper development. The teacher stands in the place of the parent. He should be a man trained so that under him the children can develop into a proper manhood.

For this reason he ought to be one who has read the best books and magazines and who has the widest outlook on life. Selecting an inferior quality of people to teach our children results eventually in inferior children.

A teacher should be the best sort of person in the world, so that out of his largeness the child may be fed.

No stream rises higher than its source, and no education is going to do for our children what it ought unless it comes from persons who are properly trained to give it.

Training teachers costs money. Attracting the best minds to the teaching profession costs money. Teachers ought to lead cultural lives with plenty of leisure, and that costs money. The teacher must maintain a standard of living which permits him to live in comfortable ease, so that he can bring to the classroom the necessary vitality. And that costs money.

We have done much toward improving the quality of the teachers in the United States, but the problem is so vital and large that we have not yet scratched the surface.

The teacher should be paid enough to make him an important member of the community. He should be paid enough to insure the respect of the children.

Money does not mean everything and there are some things that cannot be bought for money, but at the same time money means something and in the long run it is the basis for those finer qualities which we desire in those who train our children.

Miss Margaret M. Alltucker in The Journal of the National Educational association says that we want teachers of superior ability, trained, cultured and traveled, with a broad outlook and understanding of life, so that they may interpret life correctly for our boys and girls.

It is doubtful if we can secure such teachers on the salaries that we now pay.

Most of the vital problems in the future of the nation are to be determined in the classroom and we need the best of experts to preside there.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

There is a trite saying to the effect that we are often more foolish than we think. Too frequently this is true.

On the other hand, we are often wiser than we believe. For it is true that our brains are not the wisest part of us.

You may have observed that in the great moments of life, when a man decides upon an important step, his action is directed not so much by clear knowledge of the right thing to do, as by an inner impulse or instinct, proceeding from the deepest foundations of his being.

If later on he attempts to criticize his action by the light of hard and fast ideas of what is right in the abstract—those unprofitable ideas which are learned by rote, or it may be, borrowed from other people; if he begins to apply general rules, the principles which have guided others, to his own case, without sufficiently weighing the maxim that one man's meat is another's poison, then he will run risk of doing himself an injustice. The result will show where the right course lay.

All this the philosopher had in mind when he opined that it is only when a man has reached the happy "age of wisdom" that he is capable of just judgment in regard either to his own actions or to those of others.

It may be that this impulse is the unconscious effect of a kind of prophetic dream which is forgotten when we awake—lending our life a uniformity of tone, a dramatic unity, such as could never result from moments of consciousness, when we are easily led into error, so liable to strike a false note.

In one of his essays Schopenhauer suggests that it is in virtue of some such prophetic dream that a man feels himself called to great achievements in a special sphere, and works in that direction from his youth up out of an inner and secret feeling that that is his true path, just as by a similar instinct the bee is led to build up its cells in the comb.

This is the impulse which Balzac's Gracian calls the great power of moral discernment: it is something that man instinctively feels to be his salvation, without which he would be lost.

Timely Views

Applause-seeking by the pulpit was set forth recently by Dean William Ralph Inge of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, as the crying evil of the modern church. Dean Inge is now in the United States.

Modern tendencies of the pulpit to please and not to profit, he cited as dangerous to the Christian church. No detailed rules for modern life are found in either testament, he said, general principles alone being given.

In his indictment of the desire for applause on the part of many ministers, Dean Inge said:

"There are many preachers who make long sermons. If they are well applauded they are as happy as if they had obtained a kingdom. If they bring their sentiments to an end in silence, their despondency is worse, I may almost say, than hell. It is this that ruins churches. That ye do not seek to hear sermons that touch the heart but sermons that will delight your ears with their intonations, and the structure of the phrases, just as if you were listening to singers and lute players. And we preachers humor your fancies instead of trying to crush them."

"We act like a father who gives a sick child a cake or an ice cream or something else that is merely nice to eat just because he asks for it and takes no pains to give him what is good for him; and then when the doctors blame him, says 'I could not bear to make my child cry.' That is what we do when we elaborate beautiful sentences, fine combinations and harmonies to please and not to profit—to be admired and not to instruct—to delight and not to teach you, to go away with your applause in our ears and not to better your conduct."

"Believe me, I am not speaking at random. When you applaud me as I speak I feel at the moment as if it is natural for a man to feel. I will make a clean breast of it. Why should I not? I am delighted and then, when I go home, and reflect that the people who have been applauding me have received no benefit, and that, indeed, whatever benefit they might have had, has been killed in the applause, I am sore at heart and I lament and I feel as though I had spoken, altogether in vain. And I say to myself, 'What is the good of all your labors, if your hearers do not want to reap the fruit of all you say?'"

Horoscope

Astrologers see this as rather a doubtful day. Although Saturn is in benefic aspect, Mars is strongly adverse.

This should be a favorable rule for all sorts of manual labor and for difficult physical exercise.

Farmers should benefit under this sway, although they should be exceedingly cautious about the use of machinery.

Mars is in a place making for nervousness and even irritability, so strong self-control should be exercised.

There is to be much stress placed on virility and strength of mind and body where men are concerned and the artistic, delicate types are to suffer severely from lack of popularity, it is foretold.

The seers declare that modern civilization has reached the point where the decadence of the white race must be prevented by combating all forms of deterioration.

Women are to gain physically, as well as mentally, it is prognosticated, but while they may attain spiritual supremacy, they will not be able to stem the ebb tide of physical power.

If there is anything in the warning of the stars, then the summer will be a period of extraordinary events for England and her colonies.

The moon today is in Cancer, a movable, watery, feminine sign governing the breast and stomach. Diseases of the digestion may be more prevalent than usual.

Mars today is in a place believed to incline toward haste and excessive activity. Impulsiveness may lead to trouble while this configuration prevails.

This should be an auspicious time for finishing all business matters that have been left over, and it is well to stick to routine affairs.

Farmers should benefit, and all who till the soil may expect good returns from this day's work.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year of many and profitable interests, but they may become involved in disputes.

Children born on this day should possess first-rate business ability, but these subjects of Gem-

Today's Poem

BEFORE THE RAIN
We knew it would rain, for all the morn,
A spirit on slender ropes of mist
Was lowering its golden buckets
Into the vapory amethyst.

Of marshes and swamps and dismal fens—
Sweeping the dew that lay in the flowers,
Dipping the jewels out of the sea,
To scatter them over the land in showers.

We knew it would rain, for the poplars showed
The white of their leaves, the amber grain
Shrunk in the wind—and the lightning now
Is tangled in tremulous skeins of rain!

Who's Who
The recent addresses of Rear Admiral Fiske on various phases of military and national matters has drawn considerable attention to this veteran naval man. Admiral Fiske recently declared that Germany would have won the war had he not carried on his propaganda for preparedness in the early days of the Wilson administration.

Fiske was born at Lyons, N. Y., June 13, 1854. At the age of 20 he was graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy, second in his class. From ensign he rose steadily in rank until 1911 when he was promoted to the rank of rear-admiral of the U. S. N.

During the battle of Manila Fiske rendered such service as to cause him to be reported by the captain of "Petrel" of which he was navigator for "eminent and conspicuous conduct in battle" and by Admiral Dewey for "heroic conduct." He was navigator of the "Monadnock" during four months following the outbreak of the Filipino insurrection. In addition to being a sea farer,

Fiske is an inventor. He invented a boat detaching apparatus, a system of electrical communication for interiors of warships, the stadimeter, an electric range finder, a range indicator, a battle order telegraph, an electric engine telegraph, a helm-indicator, a system of turning turrets of war ships by electricity, the naval telescope and mount, the naval telescope sight and twelve or more other nautical devices.

Fiske is a member of many local and national arm's, navy, scientific and aero clubs. The Aero Club of America awarded him a gold medal for his invention of the torpedoplane and the Franklin Institute awarded him the Elliott Cresson gold medal.

Among the books Fiske has written are "Electricity in Theory and Practice," "War Times in Manila," "The Navy as a Fighting Machine," "From Midshipman to Rear Admiral," and "The Art of Fighting."

Because she is unable to laugh or cry since being injured in an automobile accident, May Golhar, of England, was awarded damages of $25,000.

VAUDEVILLE STAR GLENDALE VISITOR

Ollie Cooper, Keith Headliner,
To Spend Several Weeks
With Relatives

Ollie Cooper, native Californian, who has won success on the stage in eastern cities, is in Glendale for several weeks' visit with her mother, Mrs. William T. Wallace, of 1155 1/2 North Maryland avenue, known professionally as Georgia Woodthorpe; with her cousin, James W. Horne, of 1445 Valley View road, motion picture director, and his family; with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Dobson, of 1009 Melrose avenue. Miss Cooper's father, the late Fred Cooper, was builder of the Burbank theatre, Los Angeles.

Miss Cooper, who in private life is Mrs. Edwin Curtis, was accompanied west by her husband, who is a theatrical director. They have just come from Keith's theatre, Minneapolis, Minn., where they recently closed a long run. This is Mr. Curtis' first visit west of the Rockies.

Honored at Dinner
Upon their arrival yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Curtis were honored with a family dinner party at the Horne home. Dinner was served under the pergola on the tennis court. The table was decorated in blue and gold. There were present Mr. and Mrs. Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Dobson, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Horne, June and

Rev. Harding Preaches At Nazarene Services

Rev. U. E. Harding, one of the leading preachers of the Nazarene church denomination, preached yesterday afternoon at the First Church of the Nazarene, 417 East Acacia avenue. Rev. Harding took as his text Psalms 61:2, where the psalmist, David, said: "When my heart is overwhelmed, then will I flee to the rock that is higher than I." Mrs. U. E. Harding of Pasadena sang vocal selections.

The young people's service, held last night, was given to reports from delegates to the young people's convention, held Saturday at Alhambra. Twenty young people from Glendale Nazarene church attended the convention. Rev. Henry Scheide-man, pastor, had charge of the praise service following the meeting. The annual business meeting of the church will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock, when election of officers will be held. Tomorrow night a prayer meeting service will be held and Thursday night the annual meeting of the Young People's society will be held, with election of officers.

James Horne, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Wallace, Harry C. Woodthorpe, Mr. and Mrs. J. Landis Stevens, George and Jack Stevens, Mrs. Charles Carrere, Mrs. Hannah Laura Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cooper, James McClaire of San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis will be honored with many affairs during their stay in Glendale. While here they will be house guests at the Dobson home.

CHURCH JOINS IN COMMUNITY LIFE

Such Is Opinion Expressed
In Pastor's Sermon
At Grand View

"It is not enough that we talk about religious education and personal evangelism out here in Grand View; not enough even that we attend conventions and conferences and bring home great working plans," said Rev. George W. Thomas, pastor of Grand View Community church, in opening the first sermon in a new series on "The Place and Use of the Church in Community Life." He continued:

"Those things and many others that we have been doing are mere-ly the accumulation of supplies for a great advance in our campaign of 'Grand View for Christ.' What we have to do now is to accomplish the religious education of fully five hundred children and young people.

"There are over a thousand of all ages in Grand View, and deducting all those whose religious faith would hold them outside of our work and all those whose church interests are established elsewhere, we still have fully five hundred whom it is our duty and privilege to awaken to knowledge of God, and train in useful, patriotic, Christian citizenship for the United States of America.

Spirit of Jesus
"Many of them have never had any such awakening, nor any effective training. But how eager they are! How keen and responsive! How their little faces light up when they sit in our Bible school and catch the gladness of worship and the spirit of Jesus! The light stays and grows and shines until teachers and public school note with joy the change for the better that has come into the same children they have had to deal with, grows until homes are brightened, mother's burdens lightened, and fathers encouraged with what they see growing up in their sons.

"The new definition of education is spelled c-h-a-n-g-e. Religious education is change from what one is to what one ought to become, and it is brought about by the touch of Jesus Christ and life through teachers and leaders who cause children to know, to do, and to become. It is the creative shaping of character and the building of destiny in the knowledge and the love of Him who doeth all things supremely well. God can change man, but without ruin to man. Our business is to build God into these lives to stay in.

"God has been left out of altogether too much of our American life, and what is left is not what is America today. With all the splendid progress of our public school system, God has been left out of it. In many states, including ours, the Bible is a closed and forbidden book. The names and histories of all the pagan gods of all the earth are taught and required, but the names of the Triune Father, Son, and Holy Spirit must not be mentioned, much less discussed or studied. The Word of God our fathers bled for liberty to read, on which our president takes the oath of office, is adjudged sectarian and forbidden in our public education.

"Never mind the reasons. They are not to our credit, and the remedy does not lie in going backward, nor in putting religious instruction into the public schools as such. The remedy lies in going forward, out of the realm of sectarian controversy into the realm of co-operation and the complete freedom for all to worship and to teach God according to the dictates of conscience under competent and consecrated leadership. Systematic religious education going on in every community in close and sympathetic co-operation with the public schools, in groups suited to the great divisions of our religious life—this is the remedy, and it is being applied already in many communities with amazingly satisfactory results, though the plan is only in its infancy. It builds God into life to stay in, and because it does not crowd anyone's prejudices all creeds co-operate surprisingly well.

Grand View's Aim
"Now that is what we have to do here in Grand View. We have five hundred of the finest children anybody ever had to work with. We are the Community church. We represent the active co-operation of fourteen denominations, and in our Scouts, Girl Reserves, and Daily Vacation Bible school we touch and include help boys and girls of other faiths too. We are eager to serve the entire community effectively.

"We have the spiritual equipment, the motive, the faith, the willingness, the love of God and cause and country, and we have the opportunity. We have enjoyed the co-operation of the public school building, but we have not a stick or stone to call our own. We plan a daily vacation Bible school, and improved Sunday school. A week day school of religious instruction, a greatly strengthened work for older young people, but we have neither house of worship, nor lot on which to build one, nor money to provide either. Yet these things must be provided, and we must begin at once. We have reached a crisis. We must make the great advance for which we have been preparing our spiritual resources.

Christian Spirit
"Our people have hearts, hands, vision, consecration and faith, but no money. Many of them are actually without income, but they will be the first to help us on!"

LUTHERAN PASTOR TALKS AT OUTING

Rev. Kringel Gives Sunday
Sermon Under Trees In Eagle Rock Park

Rev. Henry O. Kringel, pastor of Zion Lutheran church, preached yesterday morning beneath the shady trees of Eagle Rock park, where church members held their first annual outing. The choir was under direction of M. D. Stecher. Rev. Kringel spoke on the theme taken from Acts 1, 8: "The Office of the Apostles." He said:

"These words, 'But ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria and unto the uttermost parts of the earth,' were among the last which our Lord Jesus spoke prior to His ascension into heaven, and tell us of the office, or commission, of the apostles, their qualifications for this office and the sphere in which they were to discharge it. That office assigned them was to bear witness to Christ; the qualifications were the gift of the Holy Ghost; their sphere, the whole earth, yet in such order that they were to begin at Jerusalem, then to pass on to the province in which Jerusalem was situated, then to the district adjoining Samaria, and so on, widening and widening their circuit, like rings upon the water, until they would encompass the entire globe.

"If these words concerned only the apostles they would be worthy of serious attention, but they actually concern all Christians of all times, generally and individually, and therefore should engage their devout attention.

Again He Said
"The Savior said: 'Ye shall receive the power of the Holy Spirit and ye shall be witnesses unto me.' He also charged them: 'When the comforter is come, whom I will send unto you from the Father, He shall testify of me, and ye shall also bear witness because ye have seen with me from the beginning.'

"This then was their office. They were appointed to witness of the mighty deeds they had seen Him do; of the holy life which they had seen Him lead and of them and in others.

"The calling upon men everywhere to repent of their sins and to accept Christ in faith as their Savior from sin, they performed the duties of their office.

Missionary Talks on Work Among Orientals
Dr. F. P. Gantt, missionary in China for twelve years, was speaker yesterday morning at Pacific Avenue Methodist church. In the service last night, Dr. Gantt showed pictures taken in China.

give service as I never saw any other people do. Some of the children who come to Sunday school have to be provided with food and clothes at times, and our children bring these things from their own homes not only at Christmas but at many other times in a perfectly wonderful spirit.

"There is here all the delight and freshness of a genuine mission field, all the crowding of opportunity and lack of material equipment. And all this talk of the young life mentions nothing of the strength of our own community. Yet this ministry is being carried on by our people, but, oh, so hampered by lack of finances and material equipment.

Church Planned
And now we know that there are many in this community to whom it would be a blessing to put their life power, their interest, their homes, their resources into this community church, not for its own sake but for Christ and humanity and for what the church has to do. We are going after men and women who care about the future of America and we are going to challenge them to come help us build God into Grand View life, young and old, and build Him in to stay; to help us build religious education, character and destiny.

"And at the same time we are going after the financial resources to purchase a lot, erect a house of worship as the center of community life, right in the civic center. We have the lot selected. Now we are going after the money, and we hope, we believe, we know we are going to find people who have money to invest in life building, who will provide us the material equipment which we can not provide, to do with our life and energy what they can not do and would like to do for Christ and Grand View Community, for the future of America, and for the Kingdom of God on earth. We have taken this all in prayer to God. Now we are going to take it in hand to the people. Who will be the first to help us on?"

REV. COLE TALKS OF MOTE PULLING

Pastor Of Central Christian
Berates Hypocrisy In Lives Of Some

Rev. Clifford A. Cole, pastor of Central Christian church, preached yesterday on the subject "The Folly of Mote-Pulling," saying:

"There was no matter about which Jesus Christ talked to men in more direct and earnest way than about the superficial righteousness of the religionists of His time. He knew that to sigh and shake the head over a sinful world was one of the easiest roads to a reputation for sanctity. And it is yet. The hypocrite trusted in himself that he was righteous and despised others. They were prone to make a display of their own goodness and pass stern judgment on their neighbors. One of the greatest blots of social intercourse today is criticism and harsh judgment given by people who themselves are far greater sinners than those whom they judge.

"People who have nothing else to talk about but their neighbors, discuss their conduct, impute unworthy motives, repeat slanders and exaggerate them, take a sinful pleasure in condemning others. Christ taught a better thing than that when He said, 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself,' and how much better the word would have been if men had practiced this principle in the Christian life more than they have.

Mote-Pulling
"Mote-pulling, without first casting the beam out of our own eyes, is frequently not only the fault of an unforgiving spirit, but is a hypocritical performance. If we have studied ourselves carefully most of us have found out that in proportion as we have become quick to discern the faults of others we have less and less discerned our own.

"There's nothing hinders one's heart-searching self-examination like the habit of fault-finding. We're horrified at drunkenness, at cursing and at the grosser sins of life, so considered; at people's seeming contempt for the spiritual things. But let's first ask ourselves if our pride, uncharitableness and covetousness are not greater sins in the sight of God. Uncharitableness and lack of pity and compassion may make a beam far more sinful and damning than the mote we find fault with.

"Did someone make a mistake? It's far worse for you to publish it. Did someone refuse to speak to you? It's a greater sin for you to get angry about it and retaliate. Did someone report something that you never said? It's a greater sin for you to act uncharitably about it.

Golden Rule
"Did someone fall into a grievous sin? Ah, friends, until you know his inherent weakness and the force of the temptation, until you have in cleanness of heart and purity of motive tried to lift such an one up you have no right under Heaven to judge him. The Golden Rule is truly a golden guide to life. How would you like to be treated under the same circumstances?"

"Answer that question at all times like those mentioned, and if you are a true man or woman you will act right. Change places with the one you mean to judge. It is the best to begin that way, for you will have to change places before you get through. For with what measure we mete it shall be measured to you again." As a man sows in his judgment of others, so shall he reap. First cast the beam out of thine own eye, and then thou canst see to cast the mote out of thy brother's eye, and not till then."

PASTOR TELLS OF 'ASCENSION DAY'

Rector Of St. Mark's Church
Speaks On Need Of Christ's Action

"Ascension Day Is the Completion of Christ's Ministry" was the subject of the sermon delivered yesterday by Rev. Philip K. Kemp, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church. He said:

"The ascension of Jesus was the logical conclusion to His earthly ministry, for His resurrection state was of necessity incomplete. We must accept the ascension as needful for a true understanding of the incarnation of Jesus Christ. While we may not, from the standpoint of present-day scientific knowledge, adequately imagine the scene, we must accept it on faith, both because the evidence is very powerful and Christian truth demands it.

"It was the conviction of the apostles that He had risen to the right hand of God, there to make intercession for us. St. Paul's teaching is grounded on this conviction of the exalted state of Christ. The opposition to it comes from those believing in a non-miraculous Christianity. Yet we cannot separate faith from the facts it rests upon. The conviction of the apostolic church was too strong to be a delusion.

Paul's Interpretation
"St. Paul gives a very beautiful interpretation of the ascension. It was for the purpose of giving gifts to men that could not otherwise have been given. The church must gain the feeling of self-reliance and courage for the work that lay before her. Along this road of adventure the Holy Spirit was to be her guide. Therefore we must have the dispensation of the Spirit when the church would gradually be led into all truth with the widening experience in the life of communion with Christ.

"This life demanded growth towards the perfect Christian manhood. For this Christ would send varying gifts to the leaders for the purpose of perfecting, edifying and working. All was for the upbuilding and spreading of the Kingdom. The Kingdom with life of unity in faith and knowledge of Christ. Ascension therefore turns our minds forward to the time when this life of faith and knowledge will be realized. Unity is lacking in the state of immaturity, but with the strength of manhood comes the poise and balance that unifies a life upon a central theme.

"In Christian service unity must come with a life of faith in Christ as the true revelation of God in life of love and service and in growing knowledge of what this life demands of us. It is to find Christ. The church has set her head to find this life which alone satisfies. St. Paul found this out of bitter experience that there is no other foundation upon which life can be built. All else is hay, straw or stubble. We cannot truly live any other life than that which Christ presents to us.

Christian Service
"Let us therefore keep before us this conception of life in which perfect faith and knowledge are joined. We do not need to wait for eternity to realize it. We can grow right here into the measure of stature of Christ as we seek the life of unity in faith and knowledge of Christ. The greatest obstacle to this life is denying Christ the control of every part of life. The true victory comes when our hearts and minds are given to Him in love and service so that we can repeat with the great apostle, for me to live is Christ."

Entertainers Engaged For Men's Club Meet

A United Glendale Should Be Our Goal

It is well known that there is strength in numbers—if all are pulling the same way. "United we stand, divided we fall," and "A house divided against itself cannot stand," are cherished maxims of the American people, both of which express this thought.

We know that a country divided by factions cannot hold its own against a united people, we know that in a football team, an army regiment, a ship's crew, differences mean defeat and failure. In all great military or commercial enterprises individualism has to be subordinated to collective action.

Robert Blatchford says that if men are to found and govern cities, to build bridges and make roads, to establish universities, to sail ships and sink mines, and create educational systems, and policies and religions, they must work together and not against each other. These things are as obvious, he says, as the fact that there could be no hive unless the bees worked as a colony and on the lines of mutual aid.

There must be co-operation in any group of people working for the same object, and what is true of a nation, a football team, and a hive of bees is also true of a community. Money is not all, but without it we cannot have the things which go to make up a modern, civilized community—the necessities of life and in addition those things which add to our comfort and happiness and contribute to a higher life. No other community is going to help support Glendale's institutions. We must look to ourselves to build the kind of a community we want. We have plenty of money in Glendale. Let us keep it here to use for ourselves. Let us spend every penny of it with the home merchants and thus keep it in circulation in Glendale, where it will continue to contribute to our own good.

REFORMER IS HIT IN POLICE CONFAB

International Convention of Chiefs Okay Stories In Press of Crimes

By ROWLAND WOOD
Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1923.
NEW YORK, May 25.—Reformers who are urging suppression by newspapers of crime news on the theory that its publication engenders more crime, are all out of step with the world's best minds of law and order enforcement, assembled here this week more than 500 strong at the third international police conference.

is at once a deterrent of crime and an aid in the capture of criminals. And, with the modern criminal "internationalized" by the use of automobiles, fast steamers and even airplanes, every possible aid is needed for his capture.

Various Opinions
The writer interviewed a dozen police officials of American and foreign cities, all of whom agreed that crime news was an aid. Even Police Commissioner Enright, of New York, whose attitude toward the press is affected somewhat, perhaps, by the fact that almost all the New York papers take an occasional "crack" at him, is in favor of crime publicity. Incidentally, it should be stated that however much Commissioner Enright is a prophet without honor in his own bailiwick, he is regarded by his fellow-chiefs as one of the most progressive and efficient of their number.

No Objection
"I can see no objection to the publication of crime news provided the newspapers do not disclose facts which play into the criminal's hands and tend to aid in his getaway—and provided the criminal is not made a hero and the work of the police minimized."

BIGGEST GROWTH SETS L. A. RECORD

City Gains More Than Third
Of People Coming to State Recently

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—This city gained more than one-third of all the new residents that have come to California since 1920. These figures are not compiled by a Los Angeles enthusiast but were prepared by the publicity director of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, a well-versed statistician of what might be termed a "rival" city.

It is shown that out of 1,304,353 persons who moved to California following the 1920 government census, at least 458,751 are credited to Los Angeles alone. This is 35 per cent of the total. What is more significant is the statement that Los Angeles alone gained nearly twice as many people in the last four years as did the combined states of Washington, Oregon, Idaho, New Mexico, Nevada and Utah.

1,100,000 P. Population
It is generally conceded that Los Angeles now has a population of 1,100,000, which is nearly one-fourth of the total population of the entire state, declared by the Oakland Chamber of Commerce to be 4,731,314. The population of the six other western states is given as follows: Washington, 1,457,694; Oregon, 935,614; Idaho, 433,144; New Mexico, 453,495; Nevada, 78,768, and Utah, 495,303. This gives a total, including California, of 8,485,332 for the seven western states. It will be seen from this that California has a population of 4,731,314, as against 3,754,018 for the other six states combined. It will be noted also that Los Angeles alone has a greater population than either the entire state of Oregon, Idaho, New Mexico, Nevada or Utah, and that it is greater than the combined population of New Mexico and Utah, or the combined population of Oregon and Nevada.

Tracy's Market Opens On San Fernando Road

Dan Tracy's Market, 1605 North San Fernando road, opened Saturday under auspicious circumstances. A continuous rush of business from morning till closing time was reported by Mr. Tracy.

Industrial District Planned In Riverside

Members of the Riverside city council, representatives of the Realty Board, the Chamber of Commerce, the Business Men's association and the bankers' association, were shown the ninety-seven acres near the eastern end of Blain street, proposed for the Riverside industrial district, by Major L. P. Stewart, president of the Riverside Realty board. It is understood that soda potash company of Los Angeles is ready to erect a factory at the site should the city lay pipe line from a nearby municipal reservoir to connect with possible buildings in the district. The ninety-seven acres, no lying idle, are intersected by the Santa Fe railway.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

IS SACCHARIN HARMFUL?

Diabetic and overweight patients are as a rule very fond of sweets, and the excess indulgence in them as one of the causes of their afflictions. In the treatment of these conditions, sweets have to be cut down, or out entirely, depending upon the degree of the disease. The longing for the sweets, however, is so intense that saccharin, a coal tar product, 200 to 300 times sweeter than sugar, but having no food value, is sometimes used.

Will any harm result from its use? The Referee Board of the Department of Agriculture conducted an investigation on the effect on the health by the use of saccharin and it was found that its continued use for a long time, in quantities over four grains a day, would cause digestive disturbances. The Board holds any commercial food sweetened with saccharin as adulterated, because the saccharin is used as a substitute for sugar, which has food value. Kellogg states that Professor Heitler, the well-known authority on heart disease, conducted some researches which show that saccharin does depress the heart. So if it is used, the quantity should be strictly limited.

Dr. Allen, a diabetic specialist, states that in small quantities, say up to two grains or so a day, he has not found it harmful to his patients.

It is very much wiser for both diabetic and obese patients to learn to like their beverages unsweetened and to learn their desire for sweets in all ways. This can be done if they abstain from them long enough. The desire for sweets is a habit which becomes more fixed with every indulgence.

If saccharin is used, it is advisable to use very little. One-quarter of a grain will make a cup of any beverage quite sweet. I advise you, if you do use it, not to use more than a grain a day, and to stop it up every now and then for a few days every month. If there is any heart weakness, it is advisable not to use it at all, unless, of course, you are under the supervision of a competent physician.

CANE SUGAR is made mostly from sugar cane and from beets. It is a highly refined product and utterly devoid of mineral elements and vitamins. It is solely an energy food and is good as an energy food in moderate amounts.

Excess candy and dessert eaters may be on the borderline of diabetes. While the urine may not show sugar, the blood will show a larger percentage than normal.

IS HONEY NON-FATTENING?

The blood has a normal range of 96 per cent to 12 per cent of sugar. In the pre-diabetic and the diabetic it runs much higher. There are other disorders besides diabetes and obesity in which sugar should be avoided; all forms of gastric disease—gastric or duodenal ulcer, hyperacidity and gall bladder disease—are among these.

At the close of the Revolutionary War, the annual per capita consumption of sugar was seven and one-half pounds, and now it is around 100. We use more sugar than any other nation in the world, and our diabetes cases are increasing markedly.

MALT SUGAR is a sugar that is made from germinated and malted grains. It has lime, iron and vitamins. It is the sugar that is used extensively in infant feeding and is usually found to agree with the babies much better than the cane. It is also taken by those who cannot take cane sugar without suffering from gas and fermentation.

HONEY is a natural sweet which also contains vitamins and mineral elements. A greater consumption of honey with a corresponding lessening of the cane sugar, is desirable. Honey has food value. I recently read of an interview given by an actress who was reducing, and she stated she was taking honey instead of sugar because it had no food value and therefore was not fattening. She is mistaken—a rounding tablespoonful of honey contains 100 calories, and 100 calories of any food, if it is in excess of your needs, theoretically and practically, deposits one-fourth of a pound of fat, if you are inclined to put on fat.

My Dear Followers—When sending me letters, please enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The envelope is reduced and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, and do not exceed 100 words. Write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to give you medical advice. I cannot vouch for the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible for me to answer all of them. I am sorry if there is of general interest. Don't forget the same if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Cuban Beef Roll
Baked Potatoes
Moulded Beet-Green Salad
Steamed Date Pudding
Hard Sauce
Cuban Beef Roll: Buy one pound of hamburger steak. Mix with it one cup of bread crumbs, three peeled, minced onions, one green sweet pepper which is minced (with seeds removed), one teaspoon of salt and one beaten egg.

Form this mixture into a long roll on a greased baking pan, lay six strips of uncooked bacon over it and slip into a moderate oven (covered) to bake for 40 or 45 minutes. Serve hot with tomato catsup.
Ham Dabs: Grind broiled, or baked, ham in your food-chopper, then add to one cupful of it one cup of bread crumbs, one tablespoon of melted butter, a dash of black pepper and three-fourths of a cup of sweet milk. Mix well, then form into small, clean china cups and make a little depression in the middle. Slip the pan into a hot oven to bake for about five minutes (or till the mixture is heated through), then half slip it out of the oven, break an egg into the depression on the top of each hot little mound and push pan back into the oven for a few minutes—till the eggs are "set." Serve at once, lifting the mounds or dabs from the pan by means of a pancake turner.
Cottage Pie: This dish consists of equal parts of left-over cooked potato and left-over cooked meat, seasoned, and mixed well with a little tomato juice or gravy (or simply hot water) added to moisten, then baked till very hot and crusted over in a good oven. In this week's menu I assume you turn, this requires considerable time, however, so I am suggesting enough cooked left-over potato to use with the roast lamb left-overs to make this dish on Thursday night.
Prune Bread: Combine one cup of scalded sweet milk, one tablespoon shortening, two tablespoons of sugar and a pinch of salt and let stand till the milk has cooled to the lukewarm stage. Then add one-fourth cup of lukewarm water in which one-half yeast cake has been dissolved. Stir in three to three and one-half cups of bread flour, then turn out on board. Knead till light (about five minutes), then put the dough in a buttered bowl to rise to twice its bulk. Again turn it out on board, add one cup of soaked but uncooked (stoned) prunes, knead again and shape in two loaves. Place in greased pans, brush with melted butter, let rise till almost double in bulk and bake 40 minutes in a hot oven.

Tomorrow: Answers to Inquiries. All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, so if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

NEW FRENCH BOBS

For the last year, the straight, sleek bob has been the rage in Paris; the mannequins at the smart dressing shops who are used by the fashion experts to set these fashions, have been oiling their hair and fairly plastering it with brilliantines to achieve this effect. So much stuff must be used on the hair to give the combination of great brilliancy and yet of softness, that the girls have to shampoo two or three times a week, for after a few days the oil makes the hair heavy.

For this reason, and because frocks are becoming more frilly and of softer outlines than last season, the hair dressing style has changed. Straight hair is to remain straight, if that is becoming (as it is in nine cases out of ten) for the slim, tight bob that went so well with boyishly straight hair waves, the waviness is accentuated, the bob is longer than it has been, and is combed as softly and fluffily around the face as possible. With this style of hair dressing, dresses with flaring skirts, pleats, panels, ribbon trimming, and the new flowered chiffon dresses that are all frills and lace, look best.

One new style of cutting for very thick hair, is to part it at the side, to comb the hair straight down on the parted side, but on the other to comb it forward towards the eyes, cutting it off in a fringe, and letting it fall towards the side naturally, the ends being trimmed off in a straight line at about the level of the ear. This way leaves thick hair from falling into the eyes and becoming disarranged, as it would with any other style of side parting.

If wavy, the hair is to grow longer in front, to comb well over the ears.

Five Initiated

Five candidates were initiated Saturday night at the meeting of Omar Shrine, White Shrine of Jerusalem at Masonic temple, South Brand boulevard. The initiation ceremony was the first conducted by the new officers. Mrs. Libbie Cutting was acting worthy high priestess and Mrs. Evelyn Pierce was acting noble prophetess. Mrs. Fern Roberts, junior worthy high priestess, was present for the first time in two months. Mrs. Kate Delgado, whose thirty-fifth wedding anniversary was Saturday, was given a pleasant surprise, when she was presented with a bouquet of pink roses and delphinium, by Mrs. Cutting on behalf of the Omar Shrine. Mrs. Evelyn Pierce presented her with a silver and polychrome mirror, a gift from members of the Delgado family.

After the meeting in the lodge room refreshments were served in the banquet hall. The tables were arranged in the shape of a cross, the center of the cross being decorated with a gold basket of chrysanthemums and ferns. Candles in holders made to represent chrysanthemums in pastel shades were added decorative features. Seventy-five members were present. Miss Katherine Delgado was general chairman of the refreshments and decorations and was assisted by the following committee: Mesdames Fred M. Augustine, Anna Gardner, Clytelle Hewitt, Ina Luring, Grace Browne and Edward Miller. Robert Grumbling, Edward Emerick, Edward Miller and George G. Pierce also assisted. The next meeting will be June 6 and a social time is being arranged.

Guild Benefit

The benefit card party and tea Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, 1380 San Luis Rey drive, Verdugo Woodlands, for St. Mark's Guild, promises to be a brilliant affair. Mesdames LeRoy Bosserman and Frank Card, chairmen of cards, have arranged their plans so that the club will play in groups. Games will begin at 2 o'clock. A buffet luncheon will be served at 4 o'clock under the direction of Mrs. Susan Hill and Mrs. W. J. Farbar. Mrs. Card and Mrs. Hill are receiving reservations.

Share Honors

Mrs. Elna F. Philp and Mrs. Mary E. Pierce were honored guests yesterday at a birthday dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas V. Philp of 1357 Virginia avenue. Mrs. Philp is a daughter of Mrs. Pierce and Mr. Philp is the son of Mrs. Ella F. Philp. Dinner was served at 6 o'clock, at a table decorated with pansies. Music formed entertainment after the dinner. Other guests were: Misses Alicia Pooley and Anna C. Philp of Glendale and Mrs. W. N. Shields of Eagle Rock.

Club Art Group

Tuesday Afternoon club women of the Fine Arts department will meet from 10 to 12 o'clock tomorrow morning at the clubhouse. John W. Cotton, instructor, will have charge of the first hour, devoted to book cover designs. Mrs. Roy A. Ballagh, curator, will present as speaker at 11 o'clock, K. L. Lillani, photographer and world traveler, who will speak on "Applied Art." His talk will be illustrated.

Tea on Thursday

The attractive garden at First Congregational church will provide the setting Thursday afternoon for the tea for women of the church. Hostesses of the affair, to begin at 2:30 o'clock, will be Mesdames E. W. W. Hayward, H. M. Porter, E. L. Schuyler, Fred Sheard, E. L. Siske and H. A. Rounds.

May Day Fete

Charlotte Sturgess, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sturgess of 508 East Cypress street, was the charming queen, who reigned Saturday afternoon over a colorful May day fete on the lawn of the Sturgess home. Gowned in white lace, with flowing train, carrying a bouquet and wand in patriotic colors, red, white and blue, Queen Charlotte represented America in presiding over a pageant of the nations. She was attended by Louise Torrey, a page, dressed in blue satin and bearing the crown; and Ruth Mitchell, a page, dressed in black satin and carrying the train. A group of little school friends from Acadia school attended in costume and gave dances of the nations. Alice Torrey gave an Irish jig; Catherine Towne, Polish dance; Beryl Mitchell, Russian dance; Frances Lord, Japanese dance; Ruth Mitchell, "couch dance"; Marguerite Erlsson, Spanish dance; Marjorie Goodhue, Irish dance; Louis Torrey, mannikin dance; Betty Hitchcock, Dutch dance; Verna Christensen, French dance. Later the queen changed her costume, and appearing as "Pinkie" with Dorothy Mitchell, as "Peter Pan" entertained with a specialty dance. The final event was the May pole dance by all of the children. Mrs. Sturgess was assisted in serving refreshments by her sister, Mrs. C. K. Rhodes of Los Angeles.

Home Wedding

The wedding of Mrs. Augusta Piper of 1016 Virginia place, and Frank Umford of Los Angeles, took place Saturday night, May 23, 1925, at 7 o'clock, at the home of the bride's niece, Mrs. Augusta Willett and her sister, Mrs. George Ganz, 1016 Virginia place. Rev. H. O. Kringel, pastor of Zion Lutheran church, officiated, performing the ceremony in the presence of a group of relatives and friends. Wedding music was furnished for the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Bruce of Glendale attended them as best man and matron of honor. Mrs. Umford wore a dress of Alice blue with satin trimmed with gold lace, a strand of pearls with earrings to match. Her bouquet was a shower of tea roses.

Decorations of the Willett home were in pink and white, Cecil Brunner and Martha Washington roses being used. Refreshments were served after the ceremony, the wedding cake decorated with pink rosebuds, being the gift of Mrs. Bruce. Mr. and Mrs. Umford will spend their honeymoon at Catalina, after which they will reside at 1016 Virginia place. Mrs. Umford has resided in Los Angeles for a number of years. Mr. Umford is a carpenter.

Guests at Studio

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Cotton, of 331 El Bonito street, were hosts Saturday afternoon to twenty-one guests from out of town at an informal affair. Guests were: Mrs. T. A. Berkebile of Monterey Park, and a number of art students of Alhambra High school and mothers of the students. The party motored over to spend the afternoon in Mr. Cotton's studio, enjoying an exhibit of his etchings and paintings. Each guest was pleasantly surprised when presented with one of Mr. Cotton's small etchings, as a souvenir of the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Cotton were in turn surprised when the departing guests brought as a gift, a huge basket of choice Alhambra grown American Beauty roses.

Card Club Meets

Mrs. L. W. Russell of 901 East Orange Grove avenue will be hostess Wednesday afternoon at the meeting of the Double Six Bridge club.

Children's Party

A very delightful children's costume party took place Saturday at the Jack Collins home, 340 West Myrtle street, Mrs. Collins entertaining for her daughter, Lucile. Many clever and artistic costumes were worn by the little guests, among them being George and Martha Washington, gypsy and floral costumes. Games were played and prizes awarded. During the afternoon a program of dances and music was given. Maxine Guiley gave a patriotic dance; Mary Alice Barton, clog dance; Annie Lynd, butterfly dance; Lucile Collins, Spanish dance. Mrs. Collins was accompanist. Later musical selections were: Piano duet, Lucile Collins and Barbara Brown; piano solo, Pauline Howe; Jone Pendleton, piano solo. A delicious luncheon was served on a table pretty with a bouquet of Cecile Brunner rosebuds and pink favors. Mrs. Collins was assisted by Mrs. Stanley Lowry. The little girls present were Barbara Brown, Lucile Collins, Mary Alice Barton, Pauline Howe, Madeline Blue, Annie Lynd, Peggy Guiley, Virginia Lowry, Jane Pendleton, Dorothy Furbeck and Lucile Collins.

Plan Luncheon

Mrs. Warren Roberts, who has charge of plans for the annual luncheon of the Music department of Tuesday Afternoon club, June 2, states that it is to be a brilliant event. Members will be privileged to bring guests. Assisting Mrs. Roberts are Mrs. F. S. Card, chairman of flowers; Mrs. G. H. Horne, placecards; Mrs. C. L. Marlenee, favors; Mrs. Enona Hopkins, program; Mesdames Mattison Boyd Jones, Freeman McGow Kelley, Nathan Rigdon, Frank Arnold, Edwin Cleophas, Alexander Mitchell, E. W. Kinney, Eva Cunningham, C. A. Parker, L. N. Hagood.

With Mrs. Jones

Chaparral, P. E. O. will meet Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Lillian Jones, 1839 South Brand boulevard. Study of parliamentary procedure and the P. E. O. constitution will occupy the time.

Business Meeting

A business meeting of Mary Jane Gillett Tent, No. 13, Daughters of Veterans, will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at 1430 1/2 South San Fernando road. Mrs. Mae H. Sutton, president, will have charge.

Girls Will Meet

A business meeting of the Girls' Friendly society, St. Mark's branch, will be held tonight at Guild hall. Supper will be served at 6:30 o'clock, after which Miss Georgina Campbell, members' chairman, will preside.

Home from North

The HOUSE of ARROW

A SERIAL STORY WRITTEN BY A. E. W. MASON
Protected By The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"What does the nurse report that Madame said to her about me, as soon as the door was closed?" Betty asked, measuring out her words with a slow insistence. "Come, Monsieur! I have a right to know," and she held out her hand for the paper.

"You shall judge for yourself that it was of no importance," said Hanaud. "Listen!" and once more he read.

"Madame said to me, looking at her clock, 'It is well that Mademoiselle has gone early. For Dijon is not Paris, and unless you go in time there are no partners for you to dance with.' It was then ten minutes to nine."

"With a smile Hanaud gave the paper into Betty's hand; and she bent her head over it swiftly, as though she doubted whether what he had recited was really written on that sheet, as if she rather trembled to think what Mrs. Harlowe had said of her after she had gone from the room. She took only a second or two to glance over the page, but when she handed it back to him, her manner was quite changed.

"Thank you," she said, with a note of bitterness, and her deep eyes gleamed with resentment. Jim understood the change and sympathized with it. Hanaud had spoken of setting a trap when he had set none. For there was no conceivable reason why she should hesitate to admit that she had seen Mrs. Harlowe in the presence of the nurse, and wished her good night before she went to the party. But he had set a real trap a minute afterwards and into that Betty had straightway stumbled. He had tricked her into admitting a dread that Mrs. Harlowe might have spoken of her in disparagement or even in horror after she had left the bedroom.

"You must know, Monsieur Hanaud," she explained very coldly, "that women are not always very generous to one another, and sometimes have not the imagination—how shall I put it?—to visualize the possible consequences of things they may say with merely the intention to hurt and do a little harm. Jeanne Baudin and I were, so far as I ever knew, good friends, but one day she said to me, when you folded up her statement in a hurry, I was naturally very anxious to hear the rest of it."

"Yes, I agree," Jim intervened. "It did look as if the nurse might have added something malevolent, which could neither be proved nor disproved."

"It was a misunderstanding, Mademoiselle," Hanaud replied in a voice of apology. "We will take care that there shall not be any other." He looked over the nurse's statement again.

"It is said here that you saw that Madame had her favorite books and her drink beside the bed. That is true."

"Yes, Monsieur."

"What was that drink?"

"A glass of lemonade."

"It was placed on a table, I suppose, ready for her every night?"

"Every night."

"And there was no narcotic dissolved in it?"

"None," Betty replied. "If Mrs. Harlowe was restless, the nurse would give an opium pill and very occasionally a slight injection of morphia."

"But that was not done on this night?"

"Not to my knowledge. If it was done, it was done after my departure."

"Very well," said Hanaud, and he folded the paper and put it away in his pocket. "That is finished with. We have you now out of the house at five minutes to nine in the evening, and Madame in her bed with her health no worse than usual."

"Good!" Hanaud changed his attitude. "Now let us go over your evening, Mademoiselle! I take it that you stayed at the house of M. de Pouillac until you returned home."

"Yes."

"You remember with whom you danced? If it was necessary, could you give me a list of your partners?"

She rose and, crossing to the writing table, sat down in front of it. She drew a sheet of paper towards her and took up a pencil. Pausing now and again to jog her memory with the blunt end of the pencil at her lips, she wrote down a list of names.

"These are all, I think," she said, handing the list to Hanaud. He put it in his pocket. "Thank you!" He was all contentment now. Although his questions followed without hesitation, one upon the other, it seemed to Jim that he was receiving just the answers which he expected. He had the air of a man engaged upon an inevitable formality and anxious to get it completely accomplished, rather than of one pressing keenly a strict investigation.

"Now, Mademoiselle, at what hour did you arrive home?"

"At twenty minutes past one."

"You are sure of that exact time? You looked at your watch? Or at the clock in the hall? Or what? How are you sure that you reached the Maison Grenelle exactly at twenty minutes past one?"

Hanaud hitched his chair a little more forward, but he had not to wait a second for the answer.

"There is no clock in the hall and I had no watch with me," Betty replied. "I don't like those wrist watches which some girls wear. I hate things round my wrists," and she shook her arm impatiently, as though the imagined constriction of a bracelet.

"And I did not put my watch in my hand-bag because I am so liable to leave that behind. So I had nothing to tell me the time when I reached home. I was not sure that I had not kept Georges—the chauffeur—out a little later than he cared for. So I made him my excuse, explaining that I didn't really know how late it was."

"I see. It was Georges who told you the time at the actual moment of your arrival?"

"Yes."

"And Georges is no doubt the chauffeur whom I saw at work as I crossed the courtyard?"

"Yes. He told me that he was glad to see me have a little gaiety, and he took out his watch and showed it to me with a laugh."

"This happened at the front door, or at the big iron gates, Mademoiselle?" Hanaud asked.

"At the front door. There is no lodge-keeper and the gates are left open when any one is out."

"And how did you get into the house?"

"I used my latch-key."

"Good! All this is very clear," Betty, however, was not mollified by Hanaud's satisfaction with her replies. Although she answered him without delay, her answers were given cautiously. Jim began to be a little troubled. She should have met Hanaud half way; she was imprudently petulant.

"She'll make an enemy of this man before she has done," he reflected uneasily. But he glanced at the detective and was relieved. For Hanaud was watching her with a smile which would have disarmed any less offended young lady—a smile half friendliness and half amusement. Jim took a turn upon himself.

"After all," he argued, "this very imprudence pleads for her better than any calculation. The guilty don't behave like that." And he waited for the next stage in the examination with an easy mind.

"Now we have got you back home and within the Maison Grenelle before half past one in the morning," resumed Hanaud. "What did you do then?"

"I went straight upstairs to my bedroom," said Betty.

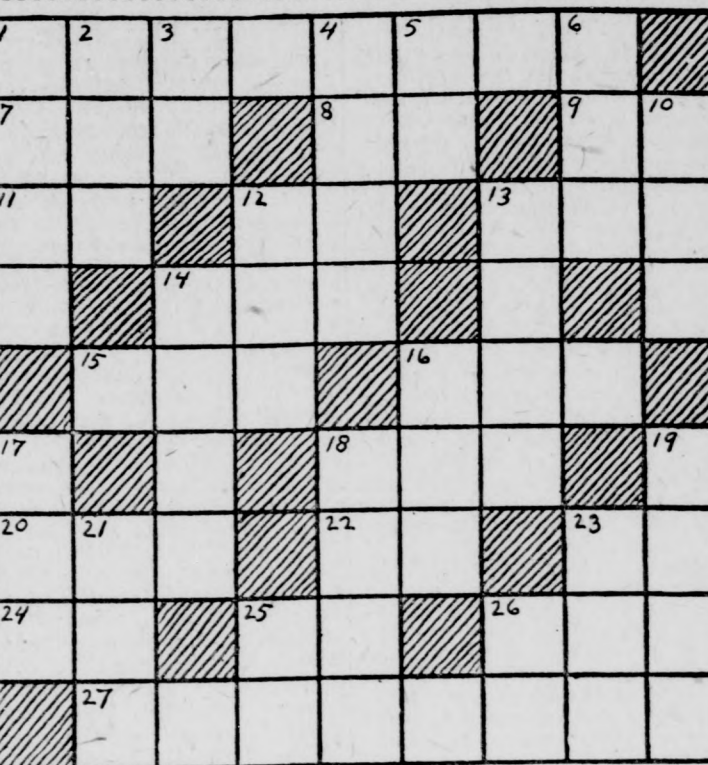

"Was your maid waiting up for you, Mademoiselle?"

"No; I had told her that I should be late and that I could undress myself."

"You are considerate, Mademoiselle. No wonder that your servant were pleased that you should have a little gaiety."

CROSS WORD PUZZLE

COMPILED FOR GLENDALE EVENING NEWS READERS
Copyright, 1925, By The George Matthew Adams Service

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE
The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram.
Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterrupted.
Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white square that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white squares remain uninterrupted.

SOLUTION OF SATURDAY'S PUZZLE

HORIZONTAL

- 1 Earth
- 4 Siren
- 8 Light brown

- 18 Suffix (used in forming adjectives from nouns.)
- 20 Coal scuttle
- 21 Before (prefix)
- 22 To put a stop to
- 24 Either
- 25 Company (ab.)

But it did not stir Hanaud to any resentment.
"When, then, did you first hear of Madame Harlowe's death?" was asked.
"The next morning my maid Francine came running into my room at 7 o'clock. The nurse Jeanne had just discovered it. I slipped on my dressing-gown and ran downstairs. As soon as I saw that it was true, I rang up the two doctors who were in the habit of attending her."

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Copyright, 1925, By The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TICKLE BRIDGE

Once upon a time, when Uncle Wiggily hopped across a brook in the woods where he had gone to look for an adventure, the bunny rabbit gentleman saw, in a tiny pool of water, with a ring of sand all around it, gold fishes. The gold fishes seemed in great trouble for they were flapping their tails and swimming quickly about in the little pool. The pool was like a small bath tub set down in, but separate from the brook.

"What is the matter, Gold Fish?" asked the bunny rabbit. "You do not seem to be happy there, swimming in the sun."

"We aren't happy," answered the larger of the two fishes. "And unless we can soon get out of this pool we may die."

"That would be sad, indeed," said Uncle Wiggily. "But what happened?"

"My brother and I," said the smaller fish, "were flopping and swimming about in the brook when we had a little race to see who could jump the farthest out of water. We both jumped and landed in this little pool. It had water enough to last us a short time, but now we have breathed nearly all the air out of the water and unless we can get back into the big brook, we shall die."

Fish, you know, need air to breathe just as we do, only they get their air out of the water, and unless they have fresh water, with fresh air in it, fishes will smother just as we would if shut up in a room with the doors and windows closed tight.

"I'll dig through the ring of sand with my rheumatism crutch and let the water from the main brook come into your locked pool," said the bunny. So he cut a channel which made the little pool a part of the big brook and then the gold fishes could swim out.

"Thank you, Uncle Wiggily!" they cried, flapping their tails.

"I am glad I could help you!" said the bunny, twinkling his pink nose and hopping away to look for an adventure. For he did not call what he had done for the gold fish an adventure.

It was about this same time that, farther down the brook, Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, the doggie boys, with Nipper and Skipper, two of Uncle Wiggily's new rabbit children, were putting pieces of bark across the water to make a little bridge. From a pile of stones on one side of the brook, to a pile of stones on the other side, the boy animals laid their bridge of bark. Then they ran across it.

But the bridge was so weak that it bent down in the middle, almost breaking, until it nearly touched the water. The little fellows thought this only the more fun.

"It makes you feel sort of ticklish-like to run over the bridge when you think it's going to fall and splash you into the water!" barked Jackie. "Let's call it a tickle bridge!"

"If we were a little fatter and heavier we'd break through our tickle bridge!" laughed Nipper. Then Skipper looked down the path and cried:

"Here comes our new daddy, Uncle Wiggily! He is bigger and fatter than we are. Let's get him to cross the tickle bridge and he'll fall through and splash into the water!"

"Oh, that'll be fun!" cried Peetie. "Uncle Wiggily likes a joke and he surely will be tickled when he goes over our bridge and it breaks with him."

So, telling the bunny rabbit gentleman nothing about how frail the bridge was, the animal boys cried, when he came up:

"Hop over our new tickle bridge, Uncle Wiggily!"

"Why do you call it a tickle bridge?" asked Mr. Longears.

"You'll see!" giggled the four little tykes.

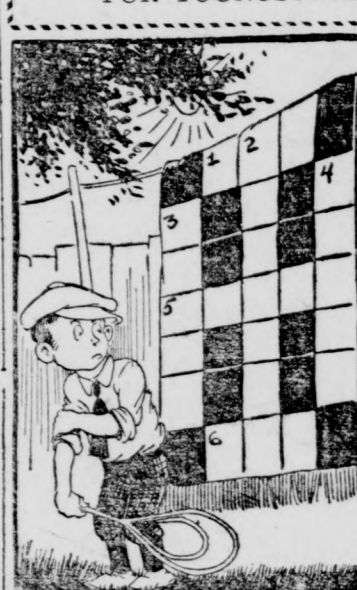

So Uncle Wiggily started across the little bark bridge. But when he reached the middle it didn't break and drop him into the water, as the animal boys thought it would. Instead, the bunny hopped safely to the other side, crossing safely on the bark bridge. And then, looking into the water, Jackie, Peetie, Nipper and Skipper saw, beneath the bridge, two large gold fishes, who, with their tails, were holding up the middle of the bark so it couldn't break. The fish did this to repay Uncle Wiggily for the favor he had done them.

"Well, boys," laughed the bunny rabbit as he twinkled his pink nose, "that's a pretty good tickle bridge. It tickles me so much I must laugh. Ha! Ha! Ha!" And he laughed again. As for the four little tykes—they never said a word. But they looked queerly at each other.

And if the dandelion doesn't rear at the violet when they are playing hide and go seek in the grass, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the tadpole.

CROSS WORD PUZZLE FOR YOUNGSTERS

HOW TO SOLVE PUZZLE

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

Running Across

- Word 1. In the picture.
- Word 5. To try the flavor of food with the tongue.
- Word 6. A small, poisonous snake that Cleopatra used to cause her death.

Running Down

- Word 2. The first name of a famous Civil War general to whom General Lee surrendered at Appomattox Court house.
- Word 3. One who performs on the stage.
- Word 4. What a man from Sweden is called.

SATURDAY'S PUZZLE ANSWERED

Agent For Washing Machine Tries Test

H. J. Cox, head of the Maytag washing machine department of the Glendale Hardware Co., 601 East Broadway, is getting much response and making many sales through his plan of demonstration for his Maytag washers.

His plan is to allow the housewife a free trial of a Maytag washer, to put it in Mr. Cox's words, "Let the woman of the house be the judge and jury and have the trial right in her own home." According to Mr. Cox, this is making a decided hit with Glendale women.

Mr. Cox says: "Every day we are proving that the Maytag has more outstanding features than most washing machines on the market today. The Vacuum and Cylinder types of washing machines growing obsolete as the Maytag is showing most people a better, quicker and more economical way to wash."

The Glendale Hardware Co. is the exclusive Glendale agent for this washing machine.

FAVORS SCENIC ROAD

SANTA BARBARA, May 25.—Engineer J. B. Lippincott of Los Angeles has reported with favor to city officials on the construction of a scenic road to Gibraltar lake in the mountains near here. It is planned to establish a pleasure resort there.

REPLANTING BEANS

VENTURA, May 25.—Many ranchers today started replanting bean acreage which was hard hit by the late rains which washed the hillsides. Seed bean contractors report a shortage of stock for those who have not a reserve supply.

ELKS HOLD BARBECUE

SANTA BARBARA, May 25.—The local Elks lodge held a barbecue at Edgar Stow's ranch near Goleta Sunday and many shoe dealers arriving here for the convention, as well as several bankers remaining over from their state meeting, were guests.

VETERANS TO BE GUESTS

SANTA ANA, May 25.—Members of the Grand Army of the Republic will be the special guests of Wednesday's meeting of the Kiwanis club here, an annual event prior to Decoration day. There are more club members than veterans of the Civil war still living, it was revealed by a check today.

ESTABLISHES BIRD FARM

ORANGE, May 25.—Leroy Chamness will establish a bird and animal farm at Orana with specially built ponds and aviaries where he will develop imported South American feathered tribes as well as wild animals which he will tame.

PICTURES 50 YEARS OLD

SANTA ANA, May 25.—The Orange County Historical society will be entertained tomorrow night at the Ebell clubhouse by lantern slide pictures of this city taken about fifty years ago. The original photographs being in the possession of Attorney Arthur M. Ellis of Los Angeles.

SHIPPING VALENCIAS

ANAHEIM, May 25.—Valencia shipping is now in full swing in practically all California houses, according to advices received this morning. In the Anaheim district valencias are being handled exclusively and in the Pomona valley a very few houses still have a few navels to put out, while in other sections of the state considerable navel shipping still continues.

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, May 25.—Saturday night, George H. Holt delivered a very interesting lecture entitled "A Scene From Among California Wild Flowers," illustrated by many beautiful pictures of California wild flowers taken by Mr. Holt in their native haunts, ranging from Yosemite valley to San Diego. The lecture was given under the auspices of the Kiwanis club and Sunland Baptist church. The Kiwanis club finished the attendance contest with one hundred per cent. Attendance period covered ten weeks. Considerable effort at times was exerted to maintain the perfect attendance, as Mr. Holt was kept on those away from home, telegrams sent to remind them to attend other clubs, and in one instance, an ambulance was used to bring to the meeting, a member who was ill at the time.

Captain Mingay, aide-de-camp to National Commander of Grand Army of the Republic, will give a talk to the pupils of Tujunga school in the school auditorium next Wednesday afternoon, on "Patriotism."

The Monte Vista Post of American Legion will hold memorial exercises on Memorial day, which will be opened in connection with the raising of the post flag, after which the graves in the Tujunga cemetery will be decorated. Lunch will be served in Legion hall by the ladies' auxiliary, after which addresses will be given at Legion hall.

An interesting memorial service was conducted by Dr. Pasko, pastor of the Methodist community church, yesterday morning.

Mrs. Helen Rutherford, of Mountain View street, is suffering from an attack of erysipelas. She was removed to hospital in Los Angeles for treatment, where she is improving.

Forty friends surprised Mr. and Mrs. Julius Eckert, of the United Spanish War Veterans and auxiliary, of Glendale, with a party. Refreshments were served.

J. M. Spates, father of Dr. E. M. Spates passed away recently, after a two years' illness caused by paralysis. Mr. Spates was born in Tennessee in 1838, served in the Civil War for the full time. He has lived in California since 1907. He is survived by four sons and four daughters. Services were held in the Church of the Flowers, Rev. W. E. Smith officiating. Interment was in Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

Miss Bertha Stanton was called to Redlands by the death of her father, last Tuesday. The remains were taken to Illinois for burial. Miss Stanton accompanying them.

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—Thousands of school children, with 150 floats, will depict "California, the Golden," in a spectacular pageant, to be the feature of Shriners' week, June 5, starting at Washington and Figueroa at 10 a. m. Sixty-five bands and civic officials also will participate.

"Sex stuff" is out of style, Joseph M. Schenck, president of the Motion Picture Producers' association, declared today, in a statement which predicted the beginning of an era of World war dramas which virtually will monopolize the screen for two years or more. He prophesies a bright future for writers of original screen stories.

Attorney Frank E. Dominguez, a native son, and one of the most colorful figures in California courts, died Sunday morning at his home from lingering illness, at the age of 50. He is survived by a widowed mother, a married daughter and two brothers, City Clerk Robert Dominguez and Battalion Chief Arthur Dominguez of the Los Angeles fire department. Funeral services will be public at the Elks' lodge, Tuesday at 2 p. m.

Another fight between the master cleaners and dyers and their route men opened today with a reduction in commissions for the latter from 40 per cent to 25 per cent. Numerous dye plants reported their drivers had not reported for work, refusing to accept the cut.

Two cannon for Pershing square and other war trophies for Exposition park have been asked of Adjutant General Mittelstadt by Boyle Workman, president of the City Council.

The Santa Fe announces the arrival tonight of Vada Watson, Turon, Kan., girl, who is advertising the Sunflower state by distributing Kansas wheat, after having been selected as the "fairest of farmers' daughters."

A special session of the county grand jury is being held today to hear additional evidence in the "ten to one" Hibbs and Hennessy rail merger investigation. Forty-eight separate counts already have been listed in indictments charging the pair with having obtained upwards of $500,000 from local investors on a basis of $10 for each dollar invested, according to District Attorney Asa Keyes.

AT VERDUGO CITY

VERDUGO CITY, May 25.—Not since he was 10 years old has Harry Fowler, president of the Verdugo City association of Commerce, enjoyed a surprise party such as that tendered him Friday night by his associates, of whom there were forty gathered to honor him, the occasion being the good news reported by him that the county road authorities will start work paving the road from Los Angeles this week. The money for the venture was gathered together through the efforts of Mr. Fowler. Paving will extend to the Glendale city limits of Sparr Heights. From this point to the Verdugo road the Sparr interests will pave.

Mr. Fowler responded to the call for a speech by thanking those present for their thoughtfulness in providing the party. At Dr. Wempe's request, Mr. Fowler told of the work being accomplished by the association. Mr. Scully of the board of directors of the Crescenta Mutual Co., gave a detailed account of the work being done in the best interests of the stockholders and asked their cooperation in the new work being adopted by the board. He also complimented Mr. Fowler on the good work he had done in the valley.

On motion made by George Hansen plans are now on foot to secure a swimming hole in the valley for young and old people. Dr. Brougher, Dr. E. L. Wemple, Harry N. Fowler will serve on the committee, with George Hansen as chairman.

In reporting on the telephone situation Dr. Wemple stated that he had been speaking to Fred Deal of the Glendale office and that prospects for a local exchange are bright.

Called on by Mr. Fowler for a talk on the post office, Mrs. Busch, post mistress, gave an interesting discussion on the first air letter that left Verdugo City Friday morning. The association members thanked the women of Verdugo City for their cooperation in the supper served at tables attractively decorated with flowers.

Ground has been broken for the new brick building to be erected on the southeast corner of Honolulu and Los Angeles avenues, where the Fowler Auto company will erect a one-story building, which is being constructed in such a way as to permit of the addition of another story at any time.

There will be three stores on the ground floor, the corner one to be a show room for the Fowler Auto Chevrolet Co., with a floor space 60x70 feet, with a round corner. Plate glass windows will add to the general appearance. The building is being constructed to conform with the Glendale building regulations, the iron being furnished by the Brambacher Iron and Steel works of Vernon. Sears' barber shop will occupy one of the stores. Gus Sears has already ordered the best fixtures procurable, in addition to new chairs. Mr. Sears will have installed showers and baths. There will be a Chevrolet service station in the rear end of the building on the Los Angeles avenue side. The site was purchased from A. Voorhees, who formerly resided here, for a reported consideration of $12,000. The building is to cost $18,000, and will be ready

GROCERY CO.

SELLS FOR LESS

NEW COFFEE PLANT	FURNITURE SALES	LUMBER TERMINAL
SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—The coffee roasting plant of Hills Brothers now is nearing completion. The plant cost $1,000,000 and is the largest roaster on the Pacific coast.	ATLANTA, May 25.—Sales of furniture and household goods have been the feature of the week in merchandise circles although sales of summer clothing have been heavy and there is a brisk demand for sporting and outing goods.	PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—The establishment of a huge lumber terminal here, whence shipments from the North Pacific coast can be distributed to a wide territory, and which has aroused opposition on the part of the local retail dealers, is being endorsed by many commercial organizations.

AT LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, May 25.—Rebekahs of the Verdugo Hills district announce they will hold institution of the new lodge Monday afternoon, June 1, at 3 o'clock, and will initiate candidates at 8 o'clock that night. Installation ceremonies will follow. Final arrangements will be made tomorrow when the Rebekahs will hold a joint meeting with the Odd Fellows in the lodge rooms in the Fowler building.

Election of officers for the coming year will be held by members of the La Crescenta Women's club at their meeting Wednesday. Nominations will be made from the floor. Only members may attend. After the business meeting there will be a sale of cooked foods in charge of Mrs. Eloise Farmer.

With a pastor in the pulpit of the Community church again, interest in the church's activities has revived. Yesterday morning children attended Sunday school at 9:45 o'clock. Service was held at 10:45 o'clock, sermon by the new pastor, Rev. Clifford Jones, who took as his text, "The Imprisoned Soul." At the night service he spoke on "Modern Miracles." It is now hoped to enlarge the membership.

Mrs. J. Benton Wirt of West

Mayfield avenue, was hostess last week to the members of the American Legion Auxiliary. The regular order of business was followed. Plans were made to help the Legion Post of the district in its drive to raise their quota of $1000. During the drive two members of the Auxiliary will be at the Montrose State bank to take charge of contributions.

The receipts of the silver tea to be given by Mesdames McCarton and Baron will be used to purchase articles to be embroidered for a coming bazaar.

"Hot Dog!" that is what the boys of Montrose Boy Scout Troop No. 1 said Friday night when they held their weekly meeting in the dugout of the American Legion's new home on the corner of Fairview and Rosemont avenues. After the business meeting came the hot dogs, the boys building their camp fires and roasting their wieners under supervision of Scout Captain McCarton.

Scout officials of the valley will look around this week for a camping spot for the La Crescenta Valley Boy Scouts during the summer. On the committee are Scout Executive Arthur Cox, Emil Brown, newly appointed scout captain of the La Crescenta troop, and Scout Master McCarton of the Montrose troop.

Members of the La Crescenta Women's club filled the Crescenta school auditorium last night when Mrs. Fredrick Crowe of San Francisco, and Miss Margaret Jarman, both prominent artists, presented their concert. Mrs. Crowe is president of the Pacific coast Musicians' club and is popular in her work as concert pianist. Miss Jarman had the honor of opening the Biltmore musicals. Her press notices at that time spoke of her as having a lovely, sweet voice, distinctively dramatic, with marked rhythm and diction. She has been well received wherever she has sung in America and Europe in grand opera. The program included numbers from "Aida," "Carmen," "Lohengrin," "Don Carlos," and others of the well known operas.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Card attended the Madrigal concert given in Glendale last week.

Mrs. Van Heuklyn is recovering from her recent illness.

An old-fashioned masquerade was held Saturday night at the club rooms in Highway Highlands when the Tuesday Afternoon club entertained residents of that district. Many novel costumes were seen.

MICHIGAN FROSTS

LANSING, Mich., May 25.—Heavy frosts last week did considerable damage to grapes and berries, but the larger fruits were only slightly damaged. Late planting saved most garden crops.

SPUG MYERS AND CALLAHAN BATTLE

Winner Of Bout Tomorrow
Night To Meet Le Roy;
Double Main Event

Spug Myers and Mushy Callahan, two slugging scrappers well known along Cauliflower Row, are matched to step ten rounds or less as the main event tomorrow night at Jack Doyle's arena. The winner of the battle will have a change to meet Russell LeRoy, South Dakota lightweight, who holds a decision over Ace Hudkins.

The semi-windup is expected to provide as much excitement as the main event. Young Nationalista and George Rivers hook up for ten rounds, all of which gives the card the appearance of a double main event. Toby Montoya and Don Levy are billed for six rounds in the special spot, and Johnny Holly and Billy Knight will open the show with four rounds of milling.

MARANVILLE BACK

Maranville made his reappearance in the line-up, no hits and two errors, in the first game, which the Cubs won 5 to 1, and sat on the bench during the second game, which the Reds won 6 to 1 behind the excellent pitching of Sheehan.

FRY'S PHYSICAL FACTS

By PROF. BYRON G. FRY
Health Expert and Champion Bag Puncher of America.
Written For The Evening News
XXXI—Real Health Diet
Milk diet with fruits No. 1—This consists of three meals daily of from one to two pints of very warm milk, and as much acid fruit as one desires to take at such meals. By acid fruit is meant apples, oranges, peaches, pears, strawberries, blackberries, etc. Any of these acid fruits can be taken with the milk at these meals. Take the milk at different times during the meal; that is, eat a small quantity of fruit and then take a glass of milk, alternating the meal in this manner.

Milk and fruit diet No. 2—This consists of three meals daily of acid fruits and sweet fruits and milk. Confine the first meal, however, to acid fruits and milk; one to two pints of milk; the second meal to sweet and acid fruits, and a small quantity of milk. The third meal is similar to the second. On this regimen it is a good plan to mix the acid fruits and the sweet fruits; otherwise, the sweet may pall upon the taste. For instance, you may chop up an apple and a smaller quantity of dates and mix them together.

A very palatable way of eating dates with milk is to take a date in the mouth, extract the seed, and then take a small quantity of milk, and masticate the date and milk together. The saliva is a very powerful digestive juice that will make digestion and assimilation possible.

Milk and fruit diet No. 3—This consists of butter milk and sweet fruits taken three times daily, as desired. On this diet one may take any sweet fruit that is desired. Masticate the sweet fruit with the butter milk at the same time.

Milk and fruit diet No. 4—This consists of two meals daily of sweet milk and acid fruits, with warmed milk, as in a previous diet. The first meal may be taken between 10 and 12 o'clock, the second in the evening. In this diet a pint to a quart of milk may be taken in the morning.

Columbus Midgets Win Indoor Championship

The midgets of Columbus school won the indoor baseball championship when they defeated the team from Doran school Saturday at the Colorado school grounds, 11 to 4. Lineup of victors: Donald Gilmore, catcher; Andrew Addore, pitcher; Lee McMullin, first base; Arthur Mailloux, first, shortstop; Robert Mailloux, second base; Elbert Witt, second shortstop; Billy Schmidt, third base; Teddy Olson, left field; Lewis Watson, center field; David Johnson, right field.

The game was umpired by H. E. Bremer, supervisor of physical education of the city schools. Miss Bessie M. Jeter is director of playground of Columbus school; Miss Ethel B. Land of Doran.

ATHLETICS WIN

Bush confined the Athletics to four hits, but Walberg confined the Browns to only one run, and the Macks won, 3 to 1. However, they lost Cochrane, who was injured by a foul tip.

TIGERS VICTORIOUS

The Tigers won their first series of the season by pelted Russell and Marberry for eleven hits, while the Senators were helpless against Daus after the third inning. Score, 5 to 2.

OPEN THIRD WEEK TWILIGHT LEAGUE

Firemen Meet Postal Crew
Today; Calla Lily And Radio Tomorrow

The third week of play in the first round of the Twilight league opens this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at the Broadway High school grounds when the Postoffice employees and the Firemen hook up. Tomorrow afternoon the Calla Lily crew meets the Radios. Wednesday will see the Huli Trucks and the Glendale Creamery in action and Thursday the Public Service and the Christian church teams will take the field.

As the week opens, the Huli Trucks and Public Service men are tied for first place. The contest tomorrow will determine who shall step into second place, as the Radios and Calla Lily aggregation are tied. In the cellar are the Glendale Creamery, Christian church and Postoffice teams.

The first round of the Twilight league will close June 25 and the second round will open June 29. The final game of the season's schedule will be played on August 13, with post-season games the following week.

Paavo Nurmi To Try For Half Mile Mark

NEW YORK, May 25.—Paavo Nurmi and Allen Helfrich will engage in short workouts today in the Yankee stadium track, where tomorrow night they will meet in a match race which is expected to produce a new world's record for the half mile. It will be Nurmi's farewell race before sailing for his home in Finland early next month. Willie Sullivan of Georgetown will be the third man in the field. The present record is 1:52 1-5, held by Ted Meredith.

Name Wilber Robinson Head of Brooklyn Club

NEW YORK, May 25.—Wilber Robinson was today elected president of the Brooklyn National league club to succeed the late Charles H. Ebbets. In addition to his new duties he will continue to fill the position as manager.

BASEBALL

The Pasadena Pains, by reason of hard hitting and numerous errors on the part of the Glendale Merchants, won the third and deciding game of the series yesterday at the local ball park. The score was 7 to 3. Glendale secured two runs in the first, and one in the fourth when Johnson, hurrying for the Painters, walked in the score. The Painters' heavy inning was in the third, when they gathered five runs off Emerson, hurrying for Glendale.

The Glendale Letter Carriers fared no better in the opening game on the double bill, when they lost to the Los Angeles Postoffice Clerks, 9 to 2. Richards was on the mound for the local mailmen. In the fifth inning, with the bases loaded, Richards fanned the batter to end the inning. Several costly errors by Glendale carriers helped to fatten the score for the visitors.

It wasn't exactly a pitcher's duel at Newhall yesterday when Sausage beat Newhall, 25 to 1.

The Shell Oilers chalked up their twenty-ninth straight win yesterday by trimming the Midway nine, 19 to 2, at Signal Hill. The victory gives them a tie for the Pacific coast record.

The Pacific Electrics defeated the Pasadena Merchants, 11 to 3, yesterday at Tournament park. Elmer Reiger started the game for the Merchants, but was driven from the box in the seventh frame, Mike File taking up the mound duties. Keltus hurled for the trolley men.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925
NEW YORK, May 25.—Pittsburgh is beginning to speed up in the National league race after a start that nearly sank the craft of the Buccannars. They have gained more than 100 points in percentage since May 7.

On May 7, the Pirates were tail-enders, with canvas flapping listlessly in the wind and the crew too discouraged to respond to the piping to grog. Then a favoring wind came along and the Pirates began to cheer up.

From May 7 to May 11, inclusive, the Pirates were in last place, a position utterly foreign to Pittsburgh's conception of what baseball is intended to be, and a position among eight clubs which it was reasonable to wager odds of twenty to one Pittsburgh would reach. With its show of playing skill, the flop of the Pirates is as mystifying to the fans as that of the Detroit Tigers. Bad baseball brings such things about, but it is hard to drive home the fact that such teams can play bad baseball.

On May 12 the Pirates jumped to seventh place. That was not much of a jump, but it showed the Pittsburgh outfit was beginning to get its wind.

On May 16 the club had attained fourth place, and today they were in a tie with Cincinnati for fourth. It wouldn't be so bad to have the Pirates in fourth place if it weren't for the fact that the Giants are so far in advance of the second and third places.

Still, the obvious fact that Pittsburgh is gaining is something and, before the race is over the team may get somewhere within reach of the top and occupy its customary place as challenger to the Giants.

It is National league history that none of its clubs has had more opportunity to win pennants, and has missed more, than Pittsburgh. Since 1921 the Pirates haven't missed a year being within shooting distance of a pennant, but they haven't won one yet. There is a lot of history about the inability of the Pirates of the past to win a championship, and some of it is told now rather freely by players who think they were the victims of others.

The Pirates are not placed in the list of those who have not been with their game, but there are yarns about advance celebrations of pennants that never were won which cost some thousands of dollars as the winners got. It was quite a little time before the growls from players got under way, but it was inevitable that they should.

In three weeks more the heat of summer will begin to tell upon ball players, and if its effects are as vitalizing with the Pirates as with most ball players, the Pittsburghers should be as fast as disappearing ghosts, for they have speed enough once it is brought into action.

No infield in either league can show more celerity than the pirate crew. Frisch, Jackson and Lindstrom are a hustling trio for the Giants, but they can't out-speed Moore, Wright and Traynor. Kelly of the Giants is a better first baseman than Nelhaus and, for the matter, he is better than most of the players in the National league. Without him the Giants wouldn't be within gunshot of where they are now.

All of which must make Pittsburgh sad. For they could have had him in fact did have him, but didn't know enough to keep him when it was a certainty that he was to become one of the league's best players.

Still, even without Kelly the Pirates may give the Giants a hustle before the season is over.

Frank Frisch Out For Month, Broken Finger

NEW YORK, May 25.—Frank Frisch, captain and star of the New York Giants, will not be able to resume play for another month, it developed today. Frisch broke a finger on his right hand in sliding into the plate some days ago.

The other New York cripple, Babe Ruth, may be permitted to leave the hospital tomorrow, but will not appear in the Yankee lineup for at least three weeks, it was said. Ruth has gained eight pounds during the past week.

HARLEM STEAMED UP ABOUT FIGHT

Big Crowd Expected Friday Night To See M'Tigue And Berlenbach

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.
NEW YORK, May 25.—Just because an ordinary difference of opinion is inclined to make an extraordinary difference in the family budget, the McTigue-Berlenbach frolic for the world's light heavyweight title on Friday night may do more than put a milk bottle on every indigent doorstep. It probably will leave some of our sportive gentlemen financially embarrassed and others financially dapper, one man's sweetmeats being another's garlic.

More money will ride on the outcome of the bout than any since the Berlenbach-Delaney affair over which a quarter of a million dollars is said to have changed hands.

"Any time they bet on a fight, you can bet the gallery will be big," Tex Rickard, promoter of the milk fund show, said today and prepared to take care of 70,000 customers.

Favor Berlenbach

A small majority of them favor Berlenbach to win with odds of 6 to 5 on a decision, but McTigue money has been bobbing up from nowhere in the last forty-eight hours. It may wipe out the odds altogether by bell time. The epidemic of carefree wagering even has extended to the boxers, who hold money in so light esteem that they would think nothing of wasting a nickel on a necktie.

Tony Marullo, meeting Jack Delaney in one of the preliminaries, is alleged to have staked $2,000 against $4,000 that he will win the decision. It also is reported that McTigue has "shot" $5,000 against $20,000 that he will beat Berlenbach by a knockout. This, if true, means that Mike is alone, like the keeper of a lighthouse.

Berlenbach, it is argued, is nine years younger than the champion, and therefore, has everything in his favor over a distance of fifteen rounds. Another factor they like is that McTigue must check his private referee at the turnstiles. Only once before, since winning the title from a colored man in Dublin on St. Patrick's day several years ago, has McTigue staked his title against referee's decision.

On the occasion in question, he met Young Stribling at Columbus, Ga., and the referee, Harry Ertle, rendered three decisions. The third time proved it. Ertle held up McTigue's right hand in token of victory as they sped across the state line with the infuriated citizenry at their heels. Only one decision will be rendered on Friday night and it will be made in the ring, where all may see and hear, and perhaps concur.

Major Upset In Golf Tourney In England

WESTWARDHO, England, May 25.—A major upset in British golf occurred today when Sir Ernest Holderness, the playing-through amateur champion, was put out in the second round of the British amateur tournament by J. I. Cruickshanks, who entered from Buenos Aires. The South American won by one up.

Hans Simek of Hamburg, the only German that has ever entered a British tournament, was put out in the second round by Cyril Tolley, the London hitting Briton, four and three. Douglas Grant, the Californian, who makes England his home, today staked America to a winning start in the first round of the British amateur golf championship by gaining a walkaway decision over G. C. Whigham.

CANTALOUPE GROWERS

EL CENTRO, May 25.—The Imperial cantaloupe growers are taxing themselves 20 cents an acre to pay the cost of an advertising campaign to popularize Imperial valley cantaloupes for deserts. About 25,100 acres have been planted, a reduction of 2000 acres from 1924.

Golf Tournaments At Oakmont Country Club

The weekly blind bogie tournament held at the Oakmont Country club, was won by J. L. Judson. Those who finished near the top were: F. M. Jacobs, E. B. Sutton, George Leaton, H. C. Goldrick, R. A. Puffer, R. F. Fitz, G. L. Knox and R. I. Graham.

Mrs. George Rich won the women's club championship by defeating Mrs. A. L. Baird in the final match. Both played a fine brand of golf and greater things are expected of them in the future. Keen competition was shown in the match play against par tournament, played yesterday at the Oakmont course. Julian Hayward and Freeman Davis finished two up on par.

CARDINALS BEAT

The Dodgers treated Dickerman, their little playmate of other days, rather rough, scoring early and often in the first two innings to beat the Cardinals 8 to 3 in a game foreshortened by rain.

Your rent + your lot = your home

HOME ownership for you need not be complicated. If you own a good lot you can borrow enough to build. If you pay rent you can carry the monthly payments that give you independence in ten years under the Security Plan of Home Financing.

Your own plans may be used. Your favorite contractor may do the work, provided that all details are approved by Security technical experts. Supervision of construction by Security inspectors guards against the worry and hazards of building. All-cash buying power, made possible by Security methods, may save money when purchasing materials.

Rent alone would cost as much, or nearly so, as the average cost of your Security Loan for ten years. Come into our offices today and let us explain the Security Plan to you. Or send a post card for a free booklet and application blank.

Torrens Title Parley Planned By Realtors

An invitation to the general public to hear a discussion of the Torrens title system, scheduled for Wednesday noon, under the auspices of the Glendale Realty board, was issued today by Secretary D. C. Casselman of the board. M. V. Hartman of Tujunga, who recently resigned as an officer of the California Real Estate association in order that he might conduct the fight for Torrens titles in this state will be the principal speaker. Attorneys Bell and Snow, Los Angeles authorities on Torrens titles, will also speak. Requests from outsiders to attend the meeting have been received by the Realty board. Secretary Casselman said. Anyone making reservations up until tomorrow night at the Realty board offices in the Security building will be welcomed. The meeting will be at the Egyptian Village cafe, commencing at 12:15 o'clock.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Ma Nature must be sad. She has uprooted several sections of the United States with tornadoes, given Japan a delirium of tremors, thrown cold weather in the Great Lakes region of America—and how much more devilment she has to account for, one doesn't quite recollect in one breath.

Anyway, the old lady is, rough this season, and we may expect some queer things to happen, according to the scientific gentry. But, just because the weather is off, there is no need to feel rotten yourselves, folks. Saw a sign in a restaurant last night which read:

"Keep your temper! Nobody else wants it."

Over at Yucaipa, in Riverside county, members of a church are going to read the Bible aloud from "Kivver to Kivver" at one session. That's a novel way of attracting attention, perhaps, yet if a person were to keep a straight face they would not want to be present when the average person is reading aloud, Bible or any other book.

Encouraging expressions are to be found in the University of Southern California. Daily Trojan in "Modern Youth." Here is an excerpt from a recent editorial worthy of reproduction:

"Morals of the college youth are not yet of such a degree that we can say he has no bad habits. But we can say, and do so, that his moral code is much better than that of the type whom movies portray as the typical debonaire sophisticate with his wine, women and song. Certainly a few college men gamble, some drink, others are well along the primrose path that Shakespeare said leads to the everlasting bonfire, and the majority of us smoke and swear. The point we wish to emphasize is that such indications as these are mere tufts of wool left on the throne—there is still a fine core of wool underneath."

The point we wish to emphasize is that such indications as these are mere tufts of wool left on the throne—there is still a fine core of wool underneath."

"Perhaps some of the faults admitted may be bad, but the goodness so outweighs the badness that it is foolishly to say rashly that college men are rotten to the core. So sane men can help but acknowledge that the college man is representative of the best in the nation intellectually, morally, physically and spiritually. Confirmation of this statement may be found in surveying the ranks of the patient boys who are working their way through school, the hard-working athletes who bear the brunt of battle on field and track, the student who turns his hours to books, and the fellow who is adolescent in his pursuits of pleasure and a million years old when it comes to letting someone else play with fire."

"Drones there have been in college, parasites there are in college now, and idlers there always will be. Simple intelligence bids us recognize that these are in the minority, and would be of the same character if they were in Podunk, Iowa, or Coffee Siding, Texas."

At the recent congress of the Gaelic Athletic association of Dublin, it was voted to continue the rule that members could neither take part in or view any foreign game.

FAMOUS COMEDY MAKES HIT HERE

'Charley's Aunt,' Now At Glendale Theatre, Is Given Ovation

The screen version of the internationally famous farce, "Charley's Aunt," by Brandon Thomas, now playing a return engagement at the Glendale theatre, received one of the greatest ovations when it opened yesterday of any film in recent weeks. Syd Chaplin has the title role, and the supporting cast is composed of players of wide repute.

As a stage play "Charley's Aunt" has already grossed over $3,000,000, and holds the money-making record for the stage. It has been produced in every civilized country in the world, which, in addition to giving it an international reputation, has established it as a play with the basic qualities of farce comedy that can be appreciated and understood in any language.

"Charley's Aunt" was first produced at Bury St. Edmunds in Suffolk in 1892, with W. S. Penley starring, and was then brought to London, playing first at the Royalty theatre, and then at the Globe, where it ran for 1466 performances. The fame of "Charley's Aunt" spread far and wide and seven touring companies started out through the provinces. Several companies are still touring England, and each year it is put on in London, where it is one of the "draws" of the holiday season.

Some of the great stage stars who have played in "Charley's Aunt" were the original W. S. Penley, who is said to have made a million and a half dollars out of it; Lyn Harding, Brandon Thomas, Miss Nina Boucicault, Julian Royce, Reeves Smith and A. E. Mathews. It was first played in America by Girardot.

The Christies gave this picture an especially elaborate production, and it is the funniest feature that the screen has offered this season.

'MILK' GANGSTERS EVIDENCE FOUND

Police Connect Shooting In
Burbank With Glendale
Clique Of Thieves

Police here today were investigating a theory that a gang of "milk bottle money" thieves who have been operating recently in Burbank, and who are held responsible for the early morning shooting last week of Cecil Kinnard, Burbank youth, is the same gang that has been looting Glendale milk bottles of small sums of money for the past few weeks.

A large number of thefts of money left in milk bottles on front and back porches have been reported to police here, and scores of others have occurred that have not been reported to headquarters. The last victim of the band was Rev. W. E. Edmonds, 121 South Cedar street, who reported yesterday that money left in bottles for the milk company had been stolen Saturday night.

Kinnard, employed by a Burbank dairy, had been investigating the activities of the milk bottle money thieves when he was shot by an unknown assailant. He is in the Burbank hospital recovering from two gunshot wounds in his arm.

While the amount of money taken in each case is relatively small, according to police, the total mounts up into substantial figures over a period of a week, and it is estimated that more than $10,000 has been stolen by the gang during the past three months, in addition to many bottles of milk.

Members of the detective bureau are working on clues that have been obtained, and which are expected soon to lead to a number of important arrests.

Merriam Is Out For Lieutenant-Governor

Frank F. Merriam, chairman of the state realty men in the Legislature committee, and for years active in Long Beach real estate affairs, has announced his candidacy for lieutenant-governor. The election will be held in the fall of 1926. Speaker Merriam, in an address at a dinner in honor of State President D. R. Richards at Sacramento, complimented the real estate men for their constructive legislative work during the past ten years. Mr. Merriam is president of the Citizens' State bank at Long Beach.

Realtors' Blue Book Edited In San Diego

One of the ablest real estate publications of the year is the new San Diego Realty Board Blue Book, or year book, compiled by the executive secretary, John N. D. Griffith. It is a compendium of all real estate, the statistics which are useful to every member of the Realty board. Secretary Griffith is

Hypnotist

GILBERT the Great, appearing daily at the Cosmo theatre.

A complete change of program is promised by the Great Gilbert, master hypnotist, who is featured at the Cosmo theatre, South Brand boulevard and Windsor road. Gilbert has set the whole town talking as the result of his first night's performance.

With local subjects, whose faces are familiar to the city, Gilbert performed some highly interesting and ridiculously funny stunts last night. In fact, he kept the house in an uproar throughout the entire performance. This can be best appreciated by seeing the performance. There was an absence last night of the cry of "fake." The entertainment has a genuineness about it that cannot be mistaken.

On the screen Douglas MacLean is showing in his newest land of laughs, "Introduce Me." This double program is shown with no increase in admission prices.

BUSTER KEATON IN GATEWAY PICTURE

'Seven Chances,' Adapted
From Belasco Stage Play,
At Movie Theatre

He had $7,000,000, but still he was a poor man.

Why? Because his girl wouldn't marry him.

Such is the predicament of Buster Keaton in "Seven Chances," showing at the Gateway theatre today and tomorrow. It isn't as bad as Buster thinks, for his girl loves him. But because he proposes to her in order to get a wife and carry out the terms of his uncle's will as to get the $7,000,000, she doesn't like it a bit.

"Seven Chances" was purchased by Joseph M. Schenck from David Belasco. Belasco's stage comedy makes excellent screen material and it is the first stage production Buster has ever used for film purposes. Buster's trio of scenarists, Joe Mitchell, Jean Haves and Clyde Bruckman, have "gagged up" the Belasco comedy to that the screen version out laughs the stage play at every turn.

The girl who refuses him is played by Ruth Dwyer.

RUSSIA, 'OUTLAW' ARMS CLUB HOLDS

Geneva Conference Decides
Soviet Territory Not Within Rulings

GENEVA, May 25.—Russia was placed in the light of outlaw territory by the general commission of the arms control conference today.

The general commission approved the French proposal to grant exemption to all countries bordering on Russia from the publicity required of other nations on manufacture and traffic in arms. The provision will hold as long as Russia refuses to become a party to the arms traffic convention.

Congressman Theodore Burton, chairman of the American delegation, approved the proposal.

SHRINE CLUB GUESTS

president of the California Association of Realty Board Secretaries, and has called a general state convention of the board secretaries to be held at Fresno in October. More than fifty secretaries are to attend.

Land of Mystery and Misery Is Described

enough to color an entire ocean—one can only gasp in amazement at the awful destructiveness of it. This is the surface soil; the soil with which man has to do in all his agricultural activities. Wasting away in millions upon millions of dollars worth every year; coming down in every little ditch, creek and tributary of the Whang Ho, from the far-off slopes of Tibet and Mongolia, being lost to use forever, and all because the uplands have been denuded of their timber that serves to check the ravages of the flooding waters, and no attempt has ever been made to reforest and renew the same. May America learn her lesson in time and "be prepared."

Camel Wandering
It was late at night when we entered the mouth of the Yantze river up a tributary of which the Whang Poo-Shanghai is situated. And it seemed an altogether unseemly hour of the morning when a delighted exclamation from an excited wife informed us that a camel was wandering untrammelled along the wharf where our ship had come to anchor. And so it was, as a glance through the porthole vindicated. An ungainly, unwieldy "ship of the desert" used by the Dollar Co., to assist in snaking cargo from the ship.

A hurried breakfast, and we rushed on deck to catch the launch that was waiting alongside to take us up the river to the city proper, as the place of our present anchorage was some half-hour's journey distant.

Here we got our first "close-up" of Chinese river life. And oh, what a life. Sailing ships, dozens, hundreds of them. Ships with canvas sails; lateen sails; bamboo sails, grass sails, and no sails at all.

Warships, steamships, sampans, junks—bumping and jostling one another till one wonders how they ever find a place to "park," and greater wonder—having found a place to anchor how they ever get out again. Little junks serving as ferry boats and propelled by women standing upright in the after part of the boat, oftentimes with her baby slung on her back, and manipulating her craft by the aid of a long unwieldy oar—a real art in itself, warmed their way in and out through the motley. All around cluttering the river on every hand boats of every description bobbed and bounced.

Here the breakfast of the occupants, consisting of chopped greens and rice, is set out in bowls upon the dirty little box-like table fixed in the bottom of the boat, ready for the various individuals to dig down with the aid of their chopsticks; and in that one the mother disentrails a fish while the baby crawls complacently through the offal and more Chinese babies emerge from the reeking depths below.

How do they live? How can they? But they do—that is some enough of them. The rate of mortality is shocking, it being said that practically one-half of all the children born in China die during the first two years. But plenty of them live on. I am reliably informed that there are multiplied instances of a children 14 and sometimes 16 years of age born on these junks who have never set foot on land.

Germes Lacking
In spite of the filth, of unsanitation; of under-feeding or over-feeding as occasion may permit; in direct violation of every law of dietetics, of health and life known to man, the Chinaman continues to live and flourish. Surely there can be no germ in China for the very plain reason that the germ can't stand it. The shops are all wide open and the meat, milk, fruit, produce, and in brief, everything that is offered for sale is in flagrant display and open to the flies, dirt, and filth of every wind that blows.

Our launch took us up the river amid a veritable fleet of odd-shaped spectacularly decorated sailing vessels, made to represent dragons, and other monsters, and carrying away in fancy to the days of bloody pirates and slave galleys, to our landing place. The congestion here was such that our launch was forced to draw up alongside another craft and we fought our way ashore by stepping from vessel to vessel, through three other boats, all the time being awed along by a chattering, jostling tide of Chinamen.

However, we came through safely and landed finally on the Bund. This is the designation given the principal business thoroughfare fronting on the river. It is built up with four and five story buildings of modern American and European type, and farther along the buildings that house the various consulates follow the bend in the river.

Find Good Hotels
Modern European and American hotels, operated invariably on the "American" plan, are plentiful here as all over the Orient. The Astor House comparing favorably with our best American hotels, and the Majestic boasting a ball-room far and away beyond anything I have ever seen. Incidentally it may be permissible to mention that hotel and general travel accommodations are so favorable all around the world today that a woman can travel with absolute safety and comfort, provided only that one stays with the regular main lines of such travel.

HOLLYWOOD GIVES RADIOLAND THRILL
Chicago Station Relays Bill
Over East; Prize Given
For Farthest Fan

By MARIAN MARSHALL
For Southland News Service
HOLLYWOOD, May 25.—Hollywood Frolics over radio KFI Saturday nights and early Sunday mornings soon will be heard around the world, it is predicted. Yesterday a Chicago station relayed the program to all parts of the east and a prize was offered the person farthest away "listening in."

Lynn Cowan, versatile vaudeville star, appearing in the Van Buren series of comedies at the Fox studios, proved the most popular entertainer on the program announced by "Bill" Beaudine, who is directing Mary Pickford. You know the Cowans are beginning to make themselves famous in the films with Sada Cowan writing scenarios, William K. Cowan directing, and Lynn Cowan acting. Mary Pickford wants the latter in her next production because "he is such a joy to follow to have around, they say."

By the way, Mary made a handsome birthday gift to Douglas Fairbanks, her husband, last week. It is a pirate island for the plunge at Pickfair, their Beverly Hills estate. A person doesn't get the scenic effect from the outside of the big box floating under and inside of the glass-topped island, a fantastic miniature city with queerly carved fish and pirates' heads among the interior decorations. "Don Q," now being finished by Doug will be followed by a pirate picture, according to Mark Larkin, who makes the announcements.

Following close on the heels of the Warner Bros. convention comes the announcement that the New York studio acquired from Vitagraph is to be closed for the balance of the year and that the old Vitagraph studio in Hollywood would be remodeled to take care of the added production on the coast, entailing a $10,000,000 budget.

It is estimated that $250,000 will be spent on the local studio, its building and additional equipment, so that entire units can be moved from the Warner plant and production carried on at both points.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of 5,000 active cows, all in one bunch, will confer a favor upon Buster Keaton by notifying him. Buster is getting ready to start his new story, tentatively titled "Brown Eyes," and for some of the most thrilling scenes he needs 5,000 cows all in one flock.

That Permanent Wave
China is no longer the land of Confucius; it is the land of confusion. Confusion of tongues, of manners, and methods, of forms and fancies, of races and peoples, of laws and governments. Everywhere, and on every hand, babel, turmoil, chaos and confusion. Here and there a bright star gleams for a moment and is gone, and over it all broods like a blight, the fatalistic atmosphere of centuries-old custom. Custom that knows no change, and, strangely of all, desires no change, but accepts and perpetuates its cumbersome methods and general inconsistencies forever, under the flimsy fatalism that, "there can be no change, for we are China."
